

Relations 'Very Strained' in New Russo-Jap Crisis

Tokio Envoy to Moscow
Admits 'No Progress' Made

MIKADO ASKS DATA
Emperor Summons
Chief Defense Officials to Palace

Moscow — (U)—The Japanese ambassador to Moscow, Mamoru Shigemitsu, said after a two-hour conference today with the Soviet foreign affairs commissar that the situation over the Amur river clash was "very strained."

Shigemitsu said that "no progress" had been made in his conversations with Commissar Maxim Litvinov.

It was announced there would be an immediate reconsideration of the whole Amur river islands' incident by the Japanese government.

The unsatisfactory result of the interview was believed to indicate a firmer attitude on the part of the Russian government.

The Japanese ambassador ended a night conference at the foreign office early today with a strong warning to the Soviet government to evacuate all troops from the disputed Amur river islands immediately.

Counter-Protest
The Russian representative placed a sharp counter-protest with Shigemitsu and charged Japan was responsible for the outbreak of hostilities along the boundary of Russia and the Japanese-occupied state of Manchoukuo.

Before the ambassador left for the critical midnight interview with M. Stomaniakov, the foreign office attache, he indicated Japan does not consider the dispute over the sovereignty of the Amur river islands subject to diplomatic discussion.

He declared Japan intends to protect full Manchoukuo's claim to the territory which the Soviet Union claims under two treaties signed with China in 1858 and 1860, seven decades before Manchoukuo became an independent nation.

Diplomatic quarters here regarded the situation as unusually tense in view of Japan's threat to defend Manchoukuo's claim and the equally firm insistence the islands belong to the Soviet Union. Observers recalled, as having an important bearing on the crisis, the official statement of Josef Stalin, secretary-general of the communist party.

"The Soviet Union does not want an inch of anyone's territory and will not yield an inch of its own."

Tokio — (U)—Emperor Hirohito called upon high defense heads today for the facts in the Russo-Japanese crisis after a Japanese cabinet decision that only the immediate withdrawal of Soviet fighters and gunboats from the disrupted Amur river border lands could effect a peaceful settlement.

In an uneasy atmosphere of official silence, indicating a ban on dispatches from the trouble zone that lies between Soviet Siberia and Japanese-sponsored Manchoukuo, the armies of Japan and the so-called "puppet state" were announced to be prepared for any eventuality.

From both sides of the frontier were reports of mass troop movements following a naval-artillery burst of violence—some Japanese.

State Senate Baseball

Team Beats Assemblymen

Madison — (U)—The smile of victory shone on the faces of the state senators today.

They won a ball game from their assembly colleagues, 5 to 2, and "rubbed" their opponents unmercifully during the rest of yesterday's outing. It was the senators' first win in years.

The game ended in a fifth inning row which followed a disputed decision by the umpire—a newspaper man who fled to the beer stand.

More worry. German economists say wear and tear on gold coins in circulation causes annual loss of nearly a ton of gold. Bad, eh? How's your circulation these days? Got high blood pressure? No? What. You got anemia for the want of? What? You do for it? Had your spondylitis cut out? Oh well, that's a minor operation, these days. Take a good tonic. For instance, all the necessary financial vitamins came from the fine results of this classified want-ad in The Post-Crescent.

ACTS IN CRISIS

Substitute Court Bill May Reach Senate Tomorrow

Robinson Drafting Bill but Is Silent on Its Provisions

Washington — (U)—Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, said today he was drafting a substitute for the Roosevelt court bill for probable introduction tomorrow.

He declined to discuss the terms of his measure, but colleagues said it was based on the idea of adding one justice a year to the supreme court for each justice over 75.

Introduction of this substitute will mark the formal abandonment of the fight for the original Roosevelt proposal by senate administration forces.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) said other foes have said for weeks they bill and that the original Roosevelt bill might gain enough votes to win without a filibuster.

Robinson announced his plans after a series of conferences with other senators and a final meeting yesterday with attorney General Cummings.

His substitute was reported to be based on the original compromise offered in the senate judiciary committee by Senator Hatch (D-N.M.), with the age limit changed from 70 to 75 years.

Under this proposal, if the four supreme court justices now past 75 continued to serve, the president could appoint one new justice a year for four years.

As the older justice retired or died, the vacancies would not be filled, and the court gradually would drop back to its present size.

Waupaca Man Named

To Conservation Body

Madison — (U)—Governor LaFollette sent to the senate for confirmation today the appointments of R. H. Fischer, Shawano, and E. E. Browne, Waupaca, to the state conservation commission.

The appointments are for terms ending July 27, 1941. Fischer would succeed T. J. Kearney, of Manitowish and Browne would succeed L. M. Robbins of Madison.

The governor also appointed Dr. H. E. Christofferson of Colby to the Wisconsin State Board of Medical Examiners for a term ending July 1, 1941. He succeeds Dr. B. E. McGonigle, Ableman. The appointment does not require confirmation.

Takes Over Duties as

Regional Director

Madison — (U)—Newell S. Boardman, 42, took office officially today as director of Region 2 of the resettlement administration which comprises Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota.

Boardman, who has been acting as assistant director since his appointment was confirmed three weeks ago by the senate, succeeds R. L. Nowell who resigned effective today to become land economist with a New York insurance firm.

Boardman is a native of New Richmond, Wis. Following graduation from the University of Wisconsin in 1918, he entered the United States aviation service for the duration of the World war.

Crew of Italian Ship

Rescued by Lifeboats

London — (U)—The crew of 32 of the Italian steamer Aida Laura was rescued by lifeboats early today off St. Ives, Cornwall, after the vessel plied upon rock during a fog. The vessel had sent out a "S O S" after her engine room was flooded. Two members of the crew were injured and taken to a hospital.

Phil Praises WDA Measure As He Signs It

Sees It as 'Milestone' Affecting 'Future Prosperity of State'

REPLIES TO CRITICS

'Savings of Prudent Investor' Will be Protected, He Declares

Madison — (U)—Governor LaFollette signed into law today the Wisconsin development authority bill, embarking the state upon a broad program of public utility ownership.

Seated in the ornate reception room of the executive offices, beside the bronze bust of his father, the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Sr., the governor used four pens in the ceremony of signing while cameras clicked and four of the backers of the bill stood at his shoulder.

To each of them—Senator John Anderson (P), Barron, and Assemblyman Charles B. Perry (R), Wauwatosa, two of the incorporators of the WDA, Assemblyman A. J. Biehl (P), Milwaukee, co-sponsor of the bill in the legislature, and John A. Becker, state rural electrification co-ordinator—the governor gave one of the pens.

Then the executive praised the new law and predicted that in years to come "this day will be remembered as a milestone marking the beginning of a sound and constructive program that will mean a great deal to the future prosperity of Wisconsin."

Taking cognizance of criticism directed at the WDA bill during its trip through the legislature, the governor said:

"No one believes that any responsible person in Wisconsin is interested in a program that is destructive. We all want to build—not destroy. No part of this power program is aimed at injuring the honest investor or his savings. On the contrary, the rights and savings of the prudent investor are entitled to and will receive protection."

The three purposes of the law, he said, are to provide an agency to co-ordinate the 85 publicly owned utilities in the state, to expand rural electrification and to promote further public power development.

Incorporators of the WDA, the non-profit corporation to which the measure appropriates $60,000 annually for these purposes, laid plans to start work immediately, calling a meeting in the governor's office next Wednesday.

Legislators, members of the governor's staff, newspaper men and radio broadcasters were spectators at the ceremony.

Of the men who played a major part in passage of the bill, only the one whose name the measure bears was absent—Senator Reidland Kanenberg (P), Wausau. He remained in the senate chamber to follow through to passage his bill appropriating $175,000 annually for establishment of university extension programs in cooperation with local school boards.

Monetary Pact To be Continued

Won't Be Dropped as Result of Financial Crisis in France

Washington — (U)—Secretary Morgenthau announced today that the tri-power monetary agreement will be continued, despite the financial crisis in France.

Calling reporters to an early morning press conference, the treasury secretary made public a communication to Georges Bonnet, French finance minister, saying that this country looks forward "to a continuation of close cooperation between the United States and the tri-partite declaration."

The monetary understanding, effected last September by Great Britain, France and the United States pledges participating nations to use stabilization funds to prevent sharp fluctuations in international exchange.

The stabilization funds buy and sell currency to raise or lower its value and maintain steady money relationships.

(While Morgenthau spoke the French franc, out of favor with gold, sagged on the Paris market to about 25.50 to the dollar and 125.50 to the British pound. This represented a devaluation of 137 per cent from the previous "Aurifer" franc.)

Morgenthau told reporters there had been "no changes in any technical arrangements under the agreement."

This statement indicated that participating nations would continue to permit the free movement of gold between their central banks and stabilization funds.

The Post-Crescent circulation department, having been informed of that certain salesmen, not connected with this newspaper, are using the name of the Post-Crescent to further the sale of magazines, announces today that no person is authorized to use the name of the Post-Crescent in connection with the sale of magazines or any other articles.

Filibuster Halts Legislation in State Assembly

Labor Members Fight Bill To License Organizers, Union Agents

Madison — (U)—With final adjournment of the legislature scheduled for noon tomorrow, assembly proceedings were stalled today through a filibuster by labor members of the house to prevent passage of a bill licensing the organizers and business agents of labor unions.

Once again old line Progressives and members of the Farmer-Labor-Progressive Federation found themselves opposing each other when the bill was called up for debate by a vote of 59 to 29.

It finally was ordered to a third reading, 46 to 37, but the opponents blocked passage by moving reconsideration.

A filibuster started by Assemblyman David Sigman (P), Two Rivers, who is an organizer for the American Federation of Labor, gave the opposition time to form its lines to keep the bill in the assembly.

The measure places a license fee of $100 on labor organizers and $25 on union business agents, the licenses to be issued by the secretary of state. It was introduced by Assemblyman P. Bradley McIntyre (D), Lancaster.

Record Expunged
The bill had been ordered to engrossment yesterday, but many members of the house took it as a joke. Sigman raised the point of order that on yesterday's roll call

Accused of Posing as Federal Investigator

Green Bay — (U)—At a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner John F. Watermolen, Cyrus W. Crook, charged with representing himself as an investigator of the United States Civil Service commission, was bound over for trial to the next term of the federal court in Milwaukee. He furnished bond of $500.

It was alleged that Crook's posing as an investigator induced Cletus Wetli, Allouez, to sign a contract with the Civil Employees Training Inc., Cleveland, Ohio, for the purpose of taking a course which would prepare him for civil service examination. Wetli said he did not complete the course but had paid $70 for it in installments. Crook resides in Green Bay.

Two Suspects Cleared

In Search for Slayer

Inglewood, Calif. — (U)—Two "hot leads" toward a solution of the slaying of three young girls collapsed today when Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz announced all suspects in custody had been cleared.

Attention had been centered on Luther Dow, 33, pointed out by witnesses as the man who played with the children before they disappeared last Saturday, and on an unnamed member of a prominent Los Angeles family.

Franklin and Ethel Roosevelt Slip

Away After Wedding on Secret Trip

Wilmington, Del. — (U)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and Ethel DuPont, daughter of the late John D. Rockefeller, slipped away today on a secret trip to Europe, leaving behind them a simple wedding ceremony at a quiet hotel in the city.

With the eyes of the country upon them as they were joined in the most publicized American wedding of the year, the blonde, blue-eyed bride and her tall, athletic, built groom slipped out of sight with the expert aid of the United States secret service.

Both President Roosevelt, father of the groom, and Mrs. Roosevelt, conspired with a few members of the families and intimate friends to keep the honeymoon plans secret. Mrs. Roosevelt, who has made many intimate family revelations in the past, made it plain that the time she was "not going to tell."

Buying Agent Plan Rejected By Councilmen

Turn Down Proposal to Name City Clerk As Officer

VOTE IS 8 TO 3

Petitions Opposing Parking Meters Sent to Committee

What Council Did:

Rejected revised council rule making city clerk purchasing agent for the city.

Referred petitions opposing parking meter plan to traffic committee.

Set daily license fee of $50 for persons not engaged in local business to sell fireworks.

Aldermen Keller's proposed revision of a council rule to make the city clerk purchasing agent was rejected by the common council by a vote of 8 and 3 at an adjourned meeting last night.

That buying through a purchasing agent would result too much in an unnecessary "red tape" was the principal objection to the plan expressed by aldermen who declared that the present rule has been working satisfactorily for a number of years.

Aldermen opposed to revising the rule were Brautigan, DeLand, Franke, Harriman, Knuhl, Kubitz, Stenhaus and McGillan. Aldermen Keller, Grignon and Thompson voted for the rule.

Petitions protesting the council's plan to try out parking meters on College avenue for six months filed this week by a number of business men, were referred to the traffic committee without discussion.

Set License Fee
A license fee of $50 per day was set for persons, not engaged in business in the city, to sell fireworks in order to discourage outsiders from operating here over the Fourth of July holiday.

Hitting at what he termed a "racket," Mayor Goodland suggested that a city ordinance be drawn which would prohibit the sale of tickets by telephone in the city. He explained that these "rackets," through which outside parties got

Milk Control Measure

Is Sent to Governor

Madison — (U)—The assembly approved and sent to Governor LaFollette last night a senate bill reenacting the Grismold milk control law. The vote was 58 to 19.

The bill will permit the state department of agriculture and markets to continue its price fixing agreements for another two years and surrounding farm territories where prices paid to the producer and charged to the consumer are now fixed by state orders.

Opponents of the bill attempted by amendments to limit its operation to one more year and to exempt fourth class cities and villages but their amendments were rejected by substantial majorities.

The proponents had sufficient support to suspend the rules for passage of the measure and sent it on its way to the executive office.

Manlaughter Charge

In Shooting Tragedy

Eau Claire — (U)—District Attorney Victor Trondal said today that Johnson, 35, arrested after the fatal shooting of a 14-year-old girl, would be arraigned "in a few days" and formally charged with manslaughter.

He was held in connection with the death of Joyce Sorensen, who was shot Tuesday night while roller skating near her home with two playmates.

Police arrested Johnson, a machinist, after they said they traced the course of the bullet to a window in his home. Policeman Norman Brandrup quoted Johnson as saying there had been bad feeling between him and his brother, Alfred, and that the shot had been fired at the porch of his brother's home "to scare" Alfred.

The bullet passed through the girl's body.

Inland Steel Reopens Plant After Indiana Governor Wins Truce

Unidentified Raiders Attack Lumberjack Headquarters

NO ARRESTS MADE

Group Smashes Windows and Overturns Furniture

Ironwood, Mich. — (U)—Lumberjack strike headquarters here and at Bessemer, Mich., were raided early today, windows smashed and furniture overturned by a group of men estimated, police said, from 50 to 100.

Police said none of the raiders had been identified and that no arrests had been made.

Ironwood police, after an investigation, said they could find no foundation to a report several men seized Norman Harris, a CIO organizer who came here recently from West Virginia to organize iron miners, and took him away in an automobile. Harris addressed striking lumberjacks at a meeting here last week.

At Duluth, Minn., James Rogovic, vice president of the Minnesota Timber Workers' union said he and two companions were beaten last night in Ironwood. He named Henry Paul, Duluth attorney for the union, and Luke Raik, president of the Michigan timber and sawmill workers union as the other victims.

Several lumberjacks at Bessemer, seven miles away, were reported to have been beaten, police said.

Police Called To Hall

At 1:30 a. m. the police were called to Palace hall, a communist meeting place which has been used as a headquarters for lumberjacks, by one of the strike leaders who asked for police protection "for guns."

A crowd had gathered in front of the hall. Several shots were fired from inside the hall, but no one was hit and there was no fighting or disorder on the part of the crowd. Police seized a shotgun and rifle and some ammunition inside the hall. The four officers advised the strikers to leave and they did so.

At Bessemer lumberjacks attacked a hall where strikers were quartered, broke a number of windows, and beat some of the strikers. This

Charges Britain, France Broke Pact

Mussolini's News paper Says They Violated Non-Intervention Agreement

(By The Associated Press)
Italian Premier Benito Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, of Milan, accused Great Britain and France today of violating the Spanish non-intervention agreement.

An editorial, regarded by some observers as from the pen of Il duce himself, declared Britain had supplied the Spanish Valencia government with arms and men and that big recruiting stations for war volunteers were operated in France.

British officials showed but scant interest in the latest of Italian attacks on British politicians. Instead, Britain looked to Rome and Berlin for suggestion to rebuild the international naval patrol around Spain, Germany and Italy having withdrawn their warships from the patrol designed to prevent arms and men from reaching either side in the civil conflict.

Both Germany and Italy have flatly rejected an Anglo-French proposal that Britain and France take over the entire patrol.

The non-intervention committee, which will tackle the problem again tomorrow, its work further complicated by Portugal's action Tuesday night in withdrawing its observers on the Spanish frontier and suspending facilities for aiding British observers.

In Valencia, the Spanish government foreign minister, Jose Giral Pereira, charged that "foreign powers" were responsible for recent submarine attacks on Spanish vessels.

1936 Accident Toll Is

Set at 111,000 Lives

Chicago — (U)—Accidents cost the United States a grim toll of 111,000 lives and a staggering bill of $3,700,000,000 in 1936, the National Safety Council estimated today.

Its annual summary of accidents facts said such fatalities of all types exceeded by more than 10,000 the 1935 total, 99,967.

It noted one person was injured accidentally every three seconds last year, there were 10,730,000 cars in all, 400,000 were permanently disabled, and an accidental death occurred every five minutes.

The home continued to be the most dangerous place. Although traffic deaths were counted by the safety council at a new high total of 37,800, fatal injuries to 38,500 were blamed upon carelessness in the home.

Falling down stairs, slipping in the bathtub, electric shocks, scalds, burns, poisoning, burns and cuts from kitchen utensils were the most frequent causes.

Admits Police May Have Used Special Weapons in Clash

Washington — (U)—A Chicago police official conceded to senate investigators today that some of his subordinates might have been armed with special weapons not furnished by the city, when they broke up a Memorial day demonstration of steel strikers.

Sergeant Lawrence J. Lyons told the senate civil liberties committee that police may have used "other than regulation clubs" in the encounter, which resulted in the death of 10 demonstrators.

Senator Thomas (D-Utah) remarked that he was "very interested" in discovering whether any weapons had been furnished to the police by the Republic Steel company, near whose gates the battle occurred.

Showing Lyons a photograph of the police line just before it went into action, he remarked:

"Now here is a most intriguing kind of club—you note it has a sharpened end."

"Oh, I don't think so," Lyons replied quickly, "policemen never intend to harm anybody, and a sharpened club might hurt someone."

Army Bill Sent To Roosevelt as Deadlock Ends

Senate Also Approves Conference Report on Interior Measure

Washington — (U)—Congress virtually completed action today on two major appropriation bills left pending when the fiscal year ended last midnight.

A house-senate deadlock was broken when the senate agreed to a conference report on the $415,000,000 army appropriation and sent it to the White House without the appropriations for the war department's non-military activities.

It had approved a few minutes earlier a conference report on the interior department appropriation bill carrying almost $135,000,000. The house was expected to approve that report during the day.

The senate also completed congressional action on a $449,930,000 appropriation bill for the civilian conservation corps, the railroad retirement board, and other agencies, which were not included in the regular supply bills. This measure was forwarded quickly to the White House.

Later, the senate passed and sent back to the house the non-military appropriation bill for the war department carrying a total of about $247,000,000.

This bill carried virtually the same appropriations for flood control as contained in the original army bill passed by the senate—outright cash authorizations of $105,000,000 and contract authorization totaling $48,000,000.

The bill now goes to a conference with the house, which authorized only a fraction of this amount for flood control.

The senate was ready, as soon as the appropriations bills were disposed of, to begin debate on the Bankhead farm tenancy bill.

Advices WPA Men Not To Send Telegrams

Madison — (U)—Dane county WPA workers heard from Governor LaFollette yesterday a suggestion they send no more telegrams to Washington.

About 25 workers, who crowded into the governor's office protesting against their return on a new plan for wholesale layoffs of WPA workers, demanded the executive were Harry Hopkins, federal WPA chief, and President Roosevelt asking larger allotments for WPA work.

"My advice to you is to send no more telegrams," LaFollette said. "It doesn't really get you anywhere. Let me say that I've already done even better than that: I've taken on this matter up personally with Hopkins by telephone."

Expect De Valera to Triumph in Election

Dublin — (U)—Political observers set the odds in favor of President Eamon de Valera today on a new election to divorce the Free State from Great Britain.

The question of the dynamic New York-born president's majority, however, was uncertain. Huge rallies addressed by De Valera and his chief opponent, former President William T. Cosgrave, last night ended the quietest and most orderly election campaign in Irish history.

Although interest was evident on every side, the poll was expected to be light. Voting is on the proportional representation system and first results were not likely to be known until early next week.

GUARD DEMOBILIZED

Troops Still on Duty in Mahoning Valley in Ohio

East Chicago, Ind. — (U)—Inland Steel's plant here peacefully reopened today under a truce announced by Governor M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana.

Thousands of workers, many wearing freshly laundered overalls and all grinning happily, walked through the gates in the first trouble-free reopening of a steel mill since the Great Lakes strike was launched May 26.

The mills of the Mahoning valley in Ohio hummed at near capacity, but Ohio National guardsmen remained to see that there was no disorder.

The Inland truce, said Governor Townsend, consisted of two parts. The first was a "statement of faith" on the part of the company and the S. W. O. C.

Name Aldermen De Land To League Committee

Alderman Robert De Land, member of the common council legislative committee and active on legislative matters during the last few months, has been named to the legislative committee of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, he has been informed by Fred N. MacMillan, Madison, executive secretary. He fills the vacancy left by former Alderman Vogt.

Expect Crowd at Madison Hearing

Paper Making Industry's Future Will be Discussed

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau. Madison—Representatives of all the important paper manufacturers in the state, including many from the Fox river valley, and representatives of all railroads operating in the state, will attend the hearing here Friday before the state public service commission which, according to the commission, involves the future of Wisconsin's paper making industry, fourth largest in the state.

The hearing concerns an application for reduction in freight rates on pulpwood. Since nearby pulpwood supplies are depleted, the 26 mills in the state claim they cannot compete with mills in the south and west unless freight rates are lowered to permit them to ship in pulpwood from other regions.

The commission has prepared an order lowering rates, but execution will be withheld until after the hearing, officials said yesterday.

contracts with local organizations for shows or other entertainment, usually netted them about 90 percent of the proceeds, and added that such an ordinance would save the townspeople money and from embarrassment.

He pointed to recent occurrences in the city where organizations were led to make contracts which he said gave the "racketeers" an opportunity to sell blocks of tickets through misrepresentations over the telephone. Two such rackets had been stopped in the city, he said. The matter was referred to the city attorney to report at the next meeting.

Want Bus Terminal

The city clerk was instructed to notify interurban and interstate bus companies to take steps towards making a union bus terminal in the city.

After turning down Alderman Keller's proposed revised council rule relating to city purchases the council voted to continue under the present buying rule which permits buying under order of the council or by requisition authorized by a committee, chairman, or head of the department for which the supplies are intended if the amount does not exceed $100. Alderman Keller was opposed, asking that the matter be held up until the next meeting.

Although Alderman Thompson voted in favor of the revised rule he spoke against it saying a purchasing agent for the city would serve no special purpose and that the plan would cause delay because of "red tape."

Would Save Money

Claiming the revised rule would end promiscuous buying and would save the city money, Alderman Keller explained the plan in detail. "The rule casts no reflection on any person, department, committee or committee chairman, but fixes responsibility by having a purchasing agent," he declared. "It facilitates buying. There has been argument in the past that some local merchants were favored, but under the rule all will have a chance to bid on supplies."

Under the rule an exception was made in regard to purchases for relief clients. Keller explained that this exception was made because the responsibility was fixed on the relief department head who has shown himself to be "fully competent."

Bratigan Opposed

Alderman Bratigan, who vigorously opposed the plan said there had been no irregularities under the present rule and claimed that the situation in the relief department also was found in the street department. He charged that the plan was impractical as a purchasing agent would have to rely on the judgment of the department head for material or equipment needed.

Objection was made by Alderman McGilgan to the clause stipulating that supplies or equipment of amounts from $25 to $500 be bought

$200,000 DAMAGE IN FIRE AT CANTON, ILL., PLANT

Company officials estimated damage at $200,000 in a fire which burst from a huge paint tub at the Canton, Ill., plant of the International Harvester Co. Three employees of the company were injured slightly when a roof collapsed. Firemen from six towns quelled the flames after a two hours battle. An aerial view of the plant is shown here, with smoke pouring from the damaged portion.

Express Opposition to Use of Parking Meters

Shoppers in Appleton stores are 97 per cent opposed to installation of parking meters on College avenue, it is indicated in ballots signed by 376 shoppers in 9 Appleton business places. Only 16 of the 376 signers said they wanted meters, and 14 of these were Appleton residents. Of the 133 non-residents of Appleton who signed ballots, only 2 said they liked the meters and 131 were against them.

The common council recently voted to give parking meters a trial for six months on College avenue between Durkee and Superior streets. Petitions signed by a large number of merchants opposed to the plan have been filed with the city clerk.

One merchant, feeling that the customers should decide as to the attitude the business men and city council take toward use of parking meters, distributed the ballots.

Merchants stated that no effort had been made to get signers and indicated that if they had, the number would have been tripled in the last few days.

One out of town resident wrote that parking meters would keep him from the city. Several townspeople wrote that the decision to use the meters was poor judgment while another was opposed because the motorists would be paying for the machines.

Following is the text of the declaration:

"The United States of America is dedicated to the truth that all men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. Civil liberties and religious rights that derive from this truth are today being assailed.

"We of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths, for whom civil liberty and religious rights are based upon principles of our religion, reaffirm our loyalty to these fundamentals of just government, and our support of the traditions of American life that have championed and applied them.

"Under the American tradition of liberty we are blessed by a land wherein people of different religious convictions and differing cultural traditions may live together in amity and mutual respect.

Fourth of July Events In Appleton Top Month's Calendar of Activities

Beginning with the 3-day civic Fourth of July celebration at Erb park to be sponsored this week-end by the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce, most of Appleton's activities this month will take place in the city's parks. July should go down in history as the month of picnics, for almost every church organization, club and lodge has planned one for some time during the next 30 days. Except for a few which will take place at coltasts, most of them will be held in the parks.

Although the date has not yet been set, the annual street department picnic, always a gala affair, is expected to take place this month.

Highway Fund Diversion Will Be Battle Cry

Defeat of Bill Will be Used By Democrats in Next Campaign

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau. Madison — Informed legislators and capitol observers predicted here this week that highway fund diversion will be the principal battle cry of the LaFollette opposition in the 1938 political campaigns.

Diversion of highway money has been the subject of much legislative debate in the last few weeks, and at the present time the assembly has pending a bill by Assemblyman Francis A. Yindra of Manitowish county, a Democrat, which would prevent such action by setting up a separate highway fund and accounting system for highway receipts.

Little chance for passage of the measure was held out yesterday, for both houses have voted to adjourn on Friday noon, and much more time will be necessary in order to get the controversial measure past the house and through the senate. Author Yindra declared yesterday that it is part of the strategy of the Progressives, who include an anti-diversion plank in the 1936 platform which brought them into office, to ride themselves of the measure before Friday so that it will die in the senate.

Principal Argument Yindra admitted frankly that the Democrats will use the defeat of the diversion bill as their principal indictment of the LaFollette administration next year. The Manitowish county legislator has repeatedly charged that the Progressives have diverted gasoline tax and motor vehicle license receipts intended for highways to other purposes to the amount of $18,000,000.

Through additional diversion during the next biennium, he said, the administration will be able to balance its budget, $19,000,000 larger than the 1936-37 budget, with no increase in taxes.

their support and defense of this truly American ideal."

Circulated by the National Conference of Jews and Christians, the declaration is aimed to strike at attempts to curtail civil liberties and religious rights. The conference is headed by Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, Roger W. Straus, and Prof. Carlton J. H. Hayes of Columbia university, New York.

Los Angeles—(7)—Mae West failed to appear in court yesterday but she'll have to answer questions as to whether she was married to Frank Wallace anyway.

A superior judge ordered Miss West to attend a disposition hearing July 9 to answer Wallace's claim he was married to the buxom actress in Milwaukee on April 11, 1917.

She has denied she was married, but a denial has never been entered on any court record.

'Right to Work' Is Basic Principle, Lawrence States

Quotes Numerous Opinions of Supreme Court On Question

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Public interest of late has centered on the "right to work" and on the "right to strike" which latter term has usually been construed to mean also the right by one group of workmen peacefully to persuade other workmen to refrain from work.

These phrases have a significant meaning under the federal constitution and as recently as May 25 of this year the Supreme Court of the United States interpreted them again. Today that decision and many previous decisions on these same points are the "supreme law of the land" in labor disputes.

But the law of the land because it is contained in declarations made at different times or because it is not reiterated by public officials often for the benefit of the laymen is sometimes ignored. Hence it is important at this time for the citizen both on the labor side and the employer side to read again some of the fundamentals about which, by the way, there has been relatively little difference of opinion by the courts both federal and state over a period of many years.

Thus Justice Brandeis, outstanding liberal of the Supreme Court of the United States, in his May 25 opinion on behalf of the court discusses "peaceful picketing" as that term is used by many states in their laws governing labor relations. He says: "That term as used implies not only absence of violence, but absence of any unlawful act. It precludes the intimidation of customers. It precludes any form of physical obstruction or interference with the plaintiff's business (the employer)."

Limits of Picketing Justice Brandeis in the same opinion explained the limits of peaceful picketing by referring to a previous case—Truax vs. Corrigan—wherein the court pointed out that it was wrong for pickets to engage in conduct which was not "lawful persuasion or inducing" or was not a "mere appeal to the sympathetic and would-be aid of customers by a simple statement of the fact of the strike and the request to withhold patronage."

Justice Brandeis declared on the other hand, that the conduct condemned in the Truax case "consisted of libelous attacks and abusive epithets against the employer and his friends; libelous and disparaging statements against the plaintiff's (employer's) business; threat and intimidation directed against customers and employees."

The whole principle of the right to work and the right not to be molested or intimidated or coerced is to be found in the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution which says:

"No state shall . . . deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Here are some of the important precedents which the Supreme Court of the United States has established in expounding that particular amendment:

No Exact Definition "While this court has not attempted to define with exactness the liberty thus guaranteed, the term has received much consideration and some of the included things have been definitely stated.

"Without doubt, it denotes not merely freedom from bodily restraint but also the right of the individual to contract, to engage in any of the common occupations of life, to acquire useful knowledge, to marry, establish a home and bring up children, to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, and generally to enjoy those privileges long recognized at common law as essential to the orderly pursuit of happiness by free men." The quotation is from the case known as Meyer vs. Nebraska. There is another which reads as follows:

"Included in the right of personal liberty and the right of private property—partaking of the nature of each—is the right to make contracts for the acquisition of property, chief among such contracts is that of personal employment by which labor and other services are exchanged for money or other forms of property. If this right be struck down or arbitrarily interfered with, there is a substantial impairment of liberty in the long-established constitutional sense. The right is as essential to the laborer as to the capitalist, to the poor as to the rich; for the vast majority of persons have no other honest way to begin to acquire property, save by working for money." This quotation comes from the well-known case of Coppage vs. Kansas.

Other Opinions Here are frequently quoted excerpts from other opinions by the Supreme Court of the United States which today are also a part of the law of the land:

"The right to work for a living in the common occupations of the community is of the very essence of the personal freedom and opportunity that it was the purpose of the amendments to secure"

Truax vs. Raich.

"The very idea that one man may be compelled to hold his life, or the means of living, or any material right essential to the enjoyment of life, at the mere will of another, seems to be intolerable in any country where freedom prevails as being the essence of slavery itself."

Yickwo vs. Hopkins.

"The fourteenth amendment . . . undoubtedly intended not only that there should be no arbitrary deprivation of life or liberty, or arbitrary spoliation of property, but that equal protection and security should be given to all under like circumstances in the enjoyment of their personal and civil rights; that all persons should be equally entitled to pursue their happiness and acquire and enjoy property"

Barber vs. Connolly.

These decisions have become deeply imbedded in the foundations of American law and while occasionally there is a division of opinion among justices as to the particular facts or circumstances in a given case, there has been unanimity of expression by the courts on the basic idea, that the right to work is sacred and that picketing which goes beyond the lawfully prescribed methods of persuasion or inducement of fellow-workmen is a violation not only of state laws but of the guarantees to be found in the federal constitution itself.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD BLAKESLEE

AP Science Editor

Detroit—Virginia Bruce has been rated as possessing the most lovely profile in Hollywood.

Now comes a new plastic surgical ruler, which admits she's all the critics say, but shows that she has the extreme limit of tip-tilted nose.

On this ruler, devised by Claire L. Straith, M. D., of Detroit, her nose tilts upward at the tip by 25 degrees. The average tip-tilt in feminine noses that go in for beauty is about 20 degrees.

In men, for good looks, the plastic surgeons figure on a tilt ranging from "zero" to 10 degrees. The angle of tilt for good looks depends on convexity or concavity of the profile.

Dr. Straith's ruler is a "profilometer," a device by which a plastic surgeon can measure the nose he is building at all stages. The sculptor can see the nose he chisels. But the plastic surgeon works from the inside and until invention of the ruler had to guess.

Many Names are Being Mentioned For Political Jobs

Senator Kannenberg Expected To Be Candidate For Governor

Post Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — If, as its critics are saying, the state legislature has done little for the general welfare during the session now ending, members of that body are able to point to abundant results in another field, the hatching of political ambitions.

As the session closes, indications are that all parties in the state will number among their aspirants for office many of those now in the legislature. Many members are openly ambitious for political promotion; others are working gingerly and carefully sounding out sentiment.

Senator Roland E. Kannenberg of Wausau, who has been one of the principal thorns in the side of his Progressive party this session, has already revealed plans for a Kannenberg dynasty. He plans to become a candidate for governor, a younger brother will campaign for his senate seat in the Wausau district, and another brother will stand for election to the assembly in Marathon county.

May Head Ticket
 Harry W. Golems, portly, able conservative senate leader from Port Washington, is the Democrat most frequently mentioned as a likely man to head the Republican-Democratic coalition ticket, if such should develop. Those who know him say that he looks kindly on the possibility of sitting in the executive office.

Recently circulated reports that Congressman Michael E. Reilly of the Sixth congressional district wants to retire have given rise to other reports that Assemblyman Maurice Fitzsimmons of Fond du Lac, also a Democrat, is ambitious to succeed him. In the Fox River valley area, the names of Senators Mike Mack, (R), Shiocton, and John E. Cashman, (D), Denmark, are frequently mentioned as probable opponents of Congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton.

Out for Congress
 Speaker Paul Alfonsi, Vilas county Progressive leader, is almost certain to make a campaign for election to congress in his district, while three Milwaukee assemblymen are openly anxious for promotion to the House of Representatives. They are John W. Grob-schmidt, house Progressive floor-leader, and Arthur Balzer and Donald Ryan, both Democrats.

David Sigman of Two Rivers, Progressive, and Palmer F. Daugs of Fort Atkinson, Democrat, both prominent party leaders in the assembly, are said to be planning campaigns for the state senate next year, while Assemblyman Leo T.

New Senior High School Is Immense Structure; To Include 4 Distinct Units

Few Appleton residents realize the immenseness of the new senior high school without making a personal trip to the construction site on Badger avenue. For instance, if a wall three feet high and one foot thick was constructed of the concrete used in the completed foundations, the mythical wall would extend from Appleton to Neenah. A total of 2,800 cubic yards, or 50 per cent, of the concrete has been poured.

Walking at a brisk pace with no obstructions in one's path, a full 10 minutes will be required to circle the building along the exterior wall. A janitor would walk from five to seven miles if he swept out every room and corridor.

Largest In State
 The $750,000 structure is the largest PWA high school project in Wisconsin and will be finished between March 1 and May 1, 1938, according to A. J. Lytle, architect's superintendent. Size is not the only compelling feature of the new school. Provision is being made for the future installation of a pipe organ and accommodations new to high schools such as a dark room, drying room for athletic equipment and music studios have been incorporated in the plans.

Four distinct units are included in the elaborate school. The academic section with 75 rooms is located in the center, the auditorium with a seating capacity of 1,600 is planned in the north wing, the gymnasium with bleachers receding into the wall makes up the south wing and the shop unit with six rooms is in the rear.

Complete Excavation
 Koepe Bros. Construction Co., Appleton, began excavating March 15 and finished May 7. Approximately 15,000 cubic yards of dirt was removed despite the fact there is no basement to the building. The extreme depth of the building is 13 feet and only fan rooms, a boiler room and a rehearsal room are below ground level.

Few delays have been experienced since the general contractor, Maurice Schumacher, Minneapolis, began construction April 5. Foundations and the first floor slab are poured and supports for the second floor are now being erected. Structural steel for the gymnasium is about 85 per cent complete and brick work on the gymnasium wall is nearly 25 per cent complete.

45 Classrooms
 The academic section will be graced by the main entrance of the Niemuth, a legislative newcomer from Oshkosh is considering suggestions from friends in his district that he oppose Senator Pierce R. Morrissey, (D), of the Winnebago-Calumet county district next year. Niemuth is a Republican, and a prominent member of the city council in his city.

building and 45 of the 75 rooms will be utilized for class instruction. The section includes a cafeteria capable of seating 250 persons at one time. The unit will be three stories in height and freight elevators will be installed.

Both the gymnasium and auditorium units will be the equivalent of three stories and both will contain balconies. The stage platform will be 68 by 34 feet and the gymnasium will be 108 feet by 180 feet overall and will seat about 2,000. Handball and squash courts, girls' gymnasium, locker, shower rooms and a corrective room are provided.

Shop Unit
 The shop unit will be one story in height and will contain separate rooms for tools, printing, machine work, auto mechanics, woodworking and drafting, the section will be connected with the main building by a tunnel.

A total of 140 men are now employed at the new school and no major accidents have occurred. Smith and Brandt, Appleton, and Eschweiler and Eschweiler, Milwaukee, are the associate architects. Officials employed by the general contractor are as follows: Helmer Halverson, contractor's superintendent; John Wallin, assistant superintendent; Harold Stocke, job office manager; Bud Halverson, assistant office manager; Oscar Nyrene, carpenter foreman; Andrew Furul, carpenter foreman; A.

Borlin, masonry foreman; Vernon Karlson, labor foreman; Emery Krueger, labor foreman. Wadeford Electric Co., Chicago, received the electrical contract and the foreman is William Boscau. Plumbing is being done by P. J. Gallagher and Sons, Fairbault, Minn. with Ben Rummel serving as foreman. J. E. Robertson Heating Co., Wauwatosa, have the heating contract and the foreman is Ray Robertson. The general contractor has let 19 sub-contracts, plumbing one and heating two.

DEER CREEK ITEMS
 Deer Creek—Lester McGlin was released from the New London Community hospital Friday. Miss Doris Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murray, was taken to the hospital at Madison last week. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Luebke and Mrs. John Luebke attended the funeral of August Bockhaus at Clintonville Monday afternoon.

Dickson Funeral Is Conducted at Fremont

Fremont — The funeral of Andrew C. Dickson, 50, who died Saturday, was conducted Wednesday afternoon at the Fremont village hall with the Weyauwega Masonic lodge in charge. The Zelchert sisters sang a number of selections accompanied by a sister Mrs. Edwin Wohlt at the piano. Burial was in the Lakeside cemetery.

Mr. Dickson founded the Fremont Gun club and served as its first president. As a member of the Chamber of Commerce he was prominent on various committees in the promotion of the water carnival. Mr. Dickson also was local representative and director of Winnebago land.

Farmers Still Have Time for More Hay Crops

Soy Beans and Millets Can Be Planted Yet, County Agent Reports

Farmers in need of additional hay crops will find that there is still time to plant for hay such crops as soybeans and millets, according to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural adjustment agent.

George M. Briggs, of the State College of Agriculture, reports that a large acreage of soybeans is being planted throughout the state for hay purposes and expects a larger than usual acreage to be planted for the production of seed. The Manchou and Illini varieties are those in most general use.

Briggs calls attention to the value and need of inoculating soybeans before planting. Not only does inoculation cost but little, but it makes it possible for the plant to collect some of its nitrogen from the air and in this way save the nitrogen supplies in the soil.

He reports that many farmers find it profitable to use a harrow or rotary hoe on soybeans when they are from three to five inches high. By doing this work in the heat of the day the plants are slightly wilted, soybeans are not injured by the civilization and many weeds are destroyed.

Present indications point to a considerable amount of millet being used for emergency hay throughout the state. The Japanese millet, often known as barnyard grass or billion dollar grass, is a variety which will be used for low wet areas. The largest family of millets that will be used in Wisconsin is known as the foxtail type and include such varieties as the German, Hungarian, Common, and Siberian. These varieties are used on all types of soil. The German variety may be the heaviest yielder, but no more desirable in quality than the others.

Other millets that will be used are the broom corn type, often called hog millets. The broom corn types are oftentimes used as a grain crop but may be used for hay if cut on the green side. It makes a slightly dustier hay than the smooth stemmed foxtail millets, and may be seeded up to early July. For this reason it has a place following the early canning peas and if the season is fair, yields from 25 to 30 bushels an acre can be obtained in a year. Grains from this type of millet Briggs considers about equal to oats, barley and corn in feeding value. On some of the heavier soil areas it has a place for follow-up cash crop or a second feed crop.

LABOR ATTORNEY EJECTED FROM COUNCIL MEETING

Samuel DeFrancesco, attorney for three leaders of the steel strike at Johnstown, Pa., who were told by Mayor Daniel J. Shields that he would no longer be responsible for their safety in the city, was ejected from the special council meeting when he insisted their constitutional rights were being violated. The spectator roles which both the Roosevelts and the DuPonts had played all day. At the reception Ethel whispered to the president. An instant later, he was the center of a flock of bridesmaids, all wanting a kiss.

Johnstown city council approved Shields' action at the special session. Shields ordered DeFrancesco ejected after a verbal clash and he is shown here scuffling with police in the removal process. He was released on bail after being charged with disorderly conduct.

Franklin repeated his father's toast to the bride, then proposed another: "To Mother."

The first lady smiled at him from her place in the reception line next to Mrs. Eugene DuPont, the bride's mother.

Welcomes President

Gay camaraderie characterized DuPont's greeting to the president on the latter's visit to his home. "Welcome to Owl's Nest," DuPont said, bowing.

"Thank you, sir," the president, "and I'm coming back another time."

"The next time," rejoined his host, "bring some white flannels." The president, apparently having such a good time he did not want to leave, stayed at the reception almost two hours longer than he had planned. That was after a two-hour dinner prolonged by innumerable toasts.

Before he and Mrs. Roosevelt, boarded their special train for Hyde Park, N. Y., the president watched the bride and groom gaily bid their guests goodbye from a second story entrance hall gallery and stood with the bride's parents when Ethel tossed her bouquet to the eager girls below. Aimee, her brunet sister and maid-of-honor, caught it.

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. DuPont, zany returned the kisses thrown to them by their newlywed son and daughter.

The Rev. Endicott Peabody, officiating minister, 32 years ago conducted the same ceremony for Franklin's father when he married Eleanor Roosevelt in New York.

Mendelssohn Recessional

There was a stir in the audience as Dr. Charles Courboin, the organist, began Mendelssohn's Recessional.

As Ethel turned slowly to face the wedding guests for the first time, her eyes were bright. Her blonde hair shone through the orange blossom designs of her Juliet cap which held a four-tier billowing white tulle veil, 12 feet long. The shurred bodice of her white tulle gown was caught into a V neckline by wax orange blossoms. They also circled her slim waist above the tuffant skirt. She carried an antique ivory prayer book with her bouquet of Dover orchids. The bridesmaids and ushers led by Aimee Du Pont and tall, blond John Roosevelt, Franklin's younger

State Body to Supervise Outlying Water Fishing

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) — Unless Governor La Follette decides to use his veto power, the Wisconsin Conservation Commission will meet July 13 to determine a policy of administration in the new domain recently handed over to it by the state legislature, commercial fishing in outlying waters.

H. W. McKenzie, director of the state conservation department, announced yesterday that the Graess bill, recently passed by both houses of the legislature, and which gives to the conservation department the power to regulate and supervise fishing in outlying waters, will be on the calendar of business of the commission at the next regular meeting.

Passage of the Graess bill, after months of debate and vigorous protests from disgruntled factions of fishermen, inaugurates a new phase of the commercial fishing industry.

brother and best man, followed the couple. Mrs. John Boettiger, the groom's only sister and matron of honor, walked alone.

Like the other bridal attendants, she wore white mousseline de soie over white tulle, and a sheer soft large hat wreathed with white violets.

henceforth the legislature has been called upon almost every session to pass new laws covering the troublesome problems of the fishermen. Some of them were passed hurriedly by legislatures who knew as little about commercial fishing as about fancy knifing.

Presents Plan

Accordingly Assemblyman Frank N. Graess, Sturgeon Bay, appeared early this session with a plan to give blanket control to a body of experts, the conservation department, subject, of course, to the approval of subsequent legislatures. In this way, he explained, a continuity of policy would be possible.

NEWSPAPERS AND EDITORIAL CLOSED SHOPS

Representatives of newspapers at a recent meeting in Chicago voiced their unalterable opposition "to the closed shop for those who prepare and edit news copy and pictures for newspapers," and took one step further by expressing a firm "determination not to enter into any agreement upon such a basis."

Now, it must be manifest to the people that a newspaper with its various departments presents an unusual variety of problems.

Those who set its type, mold its plates and run its presses should be, and are, as free as the driven November snows to drift whither they will into any organization which they conclude is suitable for their purposes and competent to speak for their rights.

But when you enter the editorial room you face another situation. The men and women in the editorial room gather the news. In many respects it may be said they see the news because they are often present in person when events are transpiring that must be caught by them either with metal cameras or those greater cameras of the mind, and then fairly and honestly portrayed to the public who wish to know the truth.

To make a closed shop of editorial writers is not merely to invite disaster to newspapers as reliable enterprises but to taint if not entirely corrupt a course of information which has been correctly regarded in America as indispensable in the maintenance of our form of government.

If our readers have not soon forgotten they may turn their attention to the last campaign in which two Chicago newspapers were accused with considerable show of reason of preparing news the way they thought it ought to be prepared to reflect their political opinions quite irrespective of the facts. Do the people want a continuation of that practice or was that slight example, that tainted spot in the newspaper world, sufficient in creating a public nausea?

Suppose, today, to continue the example, CIO controlled the gathering of news, really ran the Associated Press and the United Press upon which we so largely depend for national facts, what sort of stories and pictures would come to the public attention? Only those highly colored to show CIO strikers as angels and non-strikers as devils, and CIO leaders as righteous, probably painting the dynamite sticks in their hands into candy canes for the children.

We expect the public to stand vigorously and resolutely in support of newspapers in this position. There is no attempt to interfere with any organization executing in the editorial departments. And there likewise is no attempt to do aught but deny the right of a closed shop, which preserves the opportunity of the newspaper to get all angles of stories and to print them to the public for what they are worth.

The rather remarkable thing is that anyone in the labor world should be so shortsighted to expect newspapers to take any other stand.

If and when newspapers write a closed shop contract with the prevailing kind, or any other organization, they will be admitting they are nothing but pigs, and limp and soiled rags at that.

WHEN MAGNA CHARTA BECOMES A DUB

In Chicago, Johnstown, Youngstown and similar places the armies of steel are gathered.

In these armies are thousands of men who want to go to work, other thousands who want to stop them from going to work, and still other thousands prepared to prevent one army from visiting too great violence upon the other.

In the meantime, cold and sterilized like a motionless glacier, the Wagner Act—the Magna Charta of labor—stands as a principal cause of difficulty and preventer of peace.

We were told by our benign rulers at Washington that the Wagner Act was passed to assure collective bargaining. We were told that up until the time it was passed men in America were not really free. It would free them.

We were likewise given to believe that it was built upon the principle of majority rule in the selection of bargaining agents. Yet at all these highly dangerous points, and particularly those where martial law has been invoked, there is no majority rule, there have been no elections, and apparently there will be none.

For the Wagner Law wasn't written by Mr. Wagner. It was written by Mr. Lewis. And Mr. Wagner merely introduced it. Mr. Lewis wrote it so that it was a cinch for him.

You would hardly believe it even when we tell you that these steel companies cannot call for a vote among their employees. You are going to have difficulty in swallowing the fact that Mr. Lewis, he of the tender Herrin fame, is the only one in those situations that can actually call for a vote. Mr. Lewis won't do it.

The New York World-Telegram has a pretty good idea. It says, in effect, that the only way to get peace is to suspend the Wagner law. And the only way to suspend the Wagner law is to declare martial law, which is no law at all, and then have the governor of each state demand a vote among the workers.

But the main trouble with this suggestion is that as soon as martial law is terminated the Wagner law will come back into effect and then Mr. Lewis can start all his didoes over again.

Anyway Labor has its charter of rights—even if it is as cold and numbing as an old glacier, and even though it is strangling those it was expected to save. But it isn't strangling Mr. Lewis.

A GENERAL DIES

A recent incident on the Huesca front in Spain's civil war attracted little more than passing attention. A shell burst ended the career of General Matei Jalka Lukacs, Hungarian communist and one of the important leaders among the international volunteers fighting for the Loyalists.

That career was typical of the careers of a number of the ranking officers in the Loyalist forces. Probably the best-known of these commanders is General Emil Kiebler, Canadian-born communist whose death has been reported on several occasions, the reports later bringing denials.

Captain in the Hungarian army in the World war, captured by the Russians, Lukacs threw in his lot with the bolsheviks after the Revolution, commanded troops in the civil war that followed, later helped to direct Red operations in China, and eventually, found himself playing a leading role in the defense of Madrid.

So much by way of obituary.

An inference, however, may be drawn from the incident of Lukacs' death. It again directs attention to a truth that is becoming more and more evident. The truth is that bolshevists, while they may disclaim concern in the disputes of other people, are ready to supply trained leadership for the settling of those disputes. And there never is any question on which side the bolshevist advisers will be found.

Leftists, everywhere, need leadership. In a civil war one general may be worth ten thousand troops. That fact should not be lost sight of when Soviet spokesmen protest that Russia is neutral in such disputes or, at least, does no more than protect its own interests.

One man can move about, drawing little attention to himself, where ten thousand men can not.

FORMING AN ARMY FOR CANCER ATTACK

A New York banker, Child by name, has given to Yale 10 million dollars to be used solely for cancer research, or if a discovery of a cancer cure results, the balance to be devoted to other medical research.

America has spent a great many millions in quest of the answer to the cancer riddle, but this is the largest gift directed solely and only at cancer research and it is put in very capable hands, creating likewise for the university mentioned perhaps the greatest opportunity ever given to an institution of learning which is fundamentally, too, an institution of research.

Cancer has been one of the most subtle and cunning foes science has ever faced. Sometimes it has appeared that we were upon the verge of opening wide the cemented doors. And then disappointment has followed thick and fast when no doors were discovered. Occasionally various experiments have appeared to be destructive of cancer inroads, and yet, just about as science was to close in and fetter its dread enemy it has disappeared entirely.

But, as in leprosy, the bubonic plague, the yellow fever, the hookworm, diphtheria, smallpox and many dread scourges that sweep men to the grave as a storm may flatten a wheat field, science has persisted in the attack. It buries the soldiers who fall in the front line and calls for more volunteers.

Mr. Child has made a splendid gift, one that will bring to the front line of attack, and sustain them there, scores of scientists, making ceaseless experiments, until some day—who knows?

All authorizing an appropriation of $11,000 annually for use in making payments to scores for the education of physically handicapped children has been presented to the senate.

More than 100 species of spiders have been collected by an entomologist in the Great Smoky Mountains national park. Spiders are not classified as insects but belong to the group known as arachnids.

Photographic studies of big-horn mountain sheep taken at close range, are being attempted in Death Valley national monument. Blinds have been built to conceal camera men.

Pony express riders carried Lincoln's inaugural address from St. Joseph, Mo., to San Francisco in 7 days and 17 hours—a record. The modern air line schedule is 12 hours.

SUNSET AFTER RAIN AT A WISCONSIN LAKE

LOW hung were the skies, tears steadily dripping into the soft waters sympathetically somber. Dark hemlock drooped disconsolately, while the silver birch shivered showering cascades from rain-kissed leaves to damp moss beneath them and the sigh of the willows mingled with the plaint of the wind. Softly the curtain was lifted as the birds sounded triumphant heraldry. Softly stole forth the first pale beams to reconnoiter, transforming each tear drop with shimmering lustre, touched with mother of pearl the garb of the heavens, painted in pastel the hems of the garment. Then proudly stood forth the sun in radiance of departure while the bright rays reflected dimpled and danced in joyous abandon on the now smiling waters. Regally departed the sun; lingered tenderly the last faint reflection, to be blanketed at last by silently stealing shadows. Murmured softly as lovers the leaves in recollection. Rose quietly the moon, beams gently caressing, the birch and the willows, joining hands in shining passage o'er the breast of silver sheened water. Came faint through the distance the mourning of doves, while a world paused in tribute to the wondrous beauty. Tenderly the clouds gathered, protective. The earth slept in darkness.

The fellow who took his cigar and burned his pal's hand because he knew the pain of the burn would keep said pal awake to drive the car home while he slept. The Kaukauna mayorally candidate who said he would run for office even if he had to run against Frankie Roosevelt. Finding Blon De's address is now somewhere on Winthrop in Chicago. The Fox Rent sign on that building under construction on College avenue. Postal cards on sale in Kaukauna showing trout fishing in the Fox river there. Having breathing shortened by gals who distribute gum saying "It takes your breath away."

Not That It Makes Any Difference: But a gal who would like to be named in a piece in this column cracks her happiness over finding a road sign that doesn't murder the king's or anyone's English by reading "Drive Slowly" instead of "Drive Slow." But times that thrill are "The Merry Go Round Broke Down," "Me, Myself and I," "How Could You?" and "Where Are You." But that song bird with Eddie Duchin's orchestra just makes you want to sing.

Comes also a very nice poem by J. P. McC. for which there is not room today, a postcard from an unsigned correspondent who has but recently seen Calamity Jane's grave at Deadwood, South Dakota, and a piece on politics by Ezekiel Sodbuster. But we'll give politics a rest for the day.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

"NOTHING IN THE PAPER"

"Nothing in the paper tonight!" said he. Looking above the page at me!
"Nothing," thought I, "but history!"

Nothing in the paper at all tonight!
A discovery that will scatter light
On an old disease that doctors fight.

Nothing in the paper! A war is fought
Across the world . . . A strike was wrought.
Two blocks away a thief was caught!

Of the whole wide world! The printed rays
Nothing in the paper! The smiles and tears
Of a people! All their hopes and fears!

"Nothing in the paper tonight!" said he. Smiling across the page at me.
Nothing in the paper? That could not be!

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, June 30, 1927

Backward summer, which some dour prophets had said might not come at all, has come at last in all its blistery reality. Tuesday, the first day of the heat wave in Appleton, the temperature went up to 87 for a new high for the season. Wednesday afternoon it was reported at 91.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Kapp and daughter, Ruth, of Appleton, and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Mathias and daughter, Elaine, of Milwaukee, will leave Friday for Port Arthur, Canada, where they will visit for a week or 10 days with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rock, formerly of Appleton.

Approximately 70 employees of the street department attended the first annual picnic and frolic of the department at Stroche's island Wednesday. Theodore Albrecht, John Betz, Sr. and Edward Wolf were members of the committee which made arrangements for the picnic. Repairs are being made at St. Peter Lutheran church in the town of Freedom. A new roof is the principal work.

The government of Ecuador has placed a tax of $100 on persons desiring to explore the public lands of that country. The fee is good for six months.

Reports to the federal bureau of investigation indicate that every year 100,000 citizens are assaulted, 50,000 are robbed and the homes of 40,000 burglarized.

Because of the high cost of gasoline, between 500 and 1,000 gasoline motor trucks and buses in China have been converted to use charcoal as engine fuel.

Fossil remains indicate that there has been little or no improvement in the mental equipment of fish for the last 100,000,000 years.

DIFFICULT TO HOLD HIS ATTENTION

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

THE OLD GENTLEMAN'S CURSE

Physicians recently have found that the administration of anterior pituitary hormone either internally or by hypodermic injection, brings considerable relief to men in the earlier stage of prostatic hypertrophy, obstruction of the bladder.

The theory on which this treatment is based is that this common affliction of men past middle age is the consequence of functional deficiency of the anterior pituitary internal secretion.

The same medicament, hypodermically injected, has been found efficacious in correcting not only cryptorchidism in young boys but also the retarded or faulty development of boys with undescended testicles. Such treatment has brought about entirely satisfactory results in numerous cases where surgery would have been the only remedy a few years ago.

The introduction of transurethral prostatic resection in recent years has been a great boon to elderly gentlemen cursed with prostatic hypertrophy. Altho this comparatively easy alternative (for the patient) to the formidable perineal or suprapubic operation has already saved much life and more distress, it has been and still is condemned by some of the old guard on one pretext or another. In spite of this characteristic medical attitude, many of the most competent urologists now employ the new method almost exclusively for the treatment of prostatic obstruction and as their experience with it and its results grows they express the opinion that it should be the method of choice.

Some good physicians report that X-ray treatment alone gives prolonged relief in many cases of prostatic obstruction. This seems reasonable enough. The prostate gland is analogous with the uterus embryologically. X-ray treatment is commonly a boon for women with fibroids (myomata) or tumors of the uterus.

One in ten men past fifty, one in four past sixty, and an increasing proportion of men as the years roll on suffer from enlarged prostate. The effect, the only serious effect of this almost physiological change of senility, is mechanical obstruction of the bladder. For his own self-respect and the comfort of those about him, the old man who finds himself beginning to be troubled with undue frequency, especially at night, or with nearly or quite complete obstruction when exposed to cold or when taking a long ride, should make no compromise with fate but face the situation with good sense and courage. The earlier he seeks proper medical advice, and if necessary surgical treatment, the better.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Quartz Light

Can surgical tuberculosis be helped or cured by the use of quartz light? I have had this for many years, with tiny opening on side and constant discharge. Have been advised to take Quartz Light treatment—some of them claim it cures. (C. S.)

Answer—Ultraviolet light is a valuable aid in the treatment of all forms of tuberculosis. Where sun bathing or open air life is not available, the ultraviolet lamp is not available. Of course, the supervision and advice of physician must be had. It would be foolish to depend on ultraviolet lamp treatment alone.

Tonails

In one of your articles some time ago I read that children whose tonsils are removed become backward in their studies. I have a son who . . . (Mrs. W. M.)

Answer—I have never implied that removal of tonsils makes a child backward. On the contrary, it often has a salutary effect on a child's health, so that teachers report improved school work.

Your Birthday

"CANCER"
If July 2 is your birthday, the best hour for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 12:15 p. m., from 2:15 to 4:15 p. m., and from 8:15 to 8:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:15 to 10:15 a. m., from 4:15 to 6:15 p. m., and from 8:15 to 10:15 p. m.

Watch where you are going this day, particularly if you are driving, for many accidents will be due to influences which will divert individual attention. Lack of self-possession is the principal thing to guard against. You must have confidence in yourself if you expect to inspire it in others. Indications are that you have unlimited ability, and it requires only your making the effort to develop it to the extent that others cannot fail to recognize it. A healthy imagination, constantly used, will save you from needless worries, and you have the power to use this advantageously. If you use good judgment you will be as discriminating in the selection of your books and plays, as you are in the choice of your friends. Married and engaged couples and those whose hearts Cupid has united, must be careful that meddlesome persons, through suggestions, do not cause them to do or say something foolish, this day.

If a woman and July 2 is your birthday, you ought to have a decided talent for housekeeping. You may be highly sensitive to psychic influences. You ought to possess a great amount of tact, and by being diplomatic make many friends. By nature you are an optimist. It is up to you to develop this trait, for it will aid you to realize your most cherished hopes. You must never permit yourself, through habits, to get into a rut, particularly if you are married. Always have some interest that will keep your mind occupied and active. Through the lecture platform, stage, schoolroom, office, or in the literary field, money may flow into your purse, and a worthwhile record be made. You ought to be very happy as a wife and mother.

The child born on July 2, can be expected to be perfectly normal and healthy. During its teens contacts are likely to be established that will be invaluable in the furthering of its career.

If a man and July 2 is your natal day, you may be rather impetuous, and your decisions are apt to be a trifle too hasty. As an editor, publisher, manufacturer, writer, lawyer, doctor, engineer or sales representative your results should be gratifying.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York. Speaking of terse criticisms, there was the incident of a Broadway press agent's reaction to an invitation to handle the publicity for a waning restaurant.

The fellow in question was noted for his fine chop houses of the past, but in recent seasons his popularity has diminished.

"Well, come and have dinner with me," he urged the space-grabber. "See for yourself what a nice place I have."

Unable to escape, the press agent arrived and sat through a far from savory dinner.

Reflecting bitterly upon the experience next morning, he dispatched this telegram to the restaurateur: "What you need is a chef, not a press agent."

It must be true, the saying that a racket—just any old racket—will work in New York. There was the "hit show," gag that cropped up in the police reports the other morning.

It appears that a broker received two tickets to "The Women," a Broadway star attraction, and with the tickets was a note saying, "Guess who?"

Unable to solve the anonymity of the donor, but nevertheless delighted to have two tickets to a hit drama, a sad-eyed dervish, was a street musician, and he earned his living by playing impromptu tunes to any and all who would listen, and who would, incidentally, contribute a few coins.

Several yards away stood one of those haughty doormen who, so the New York legend has it, are far more impetuous than a grand duke could or would want to be. He suddenly, stepped briskly up to the startled fiddler.

He said something in a low voice to the fellow, and I suppose he was inviting him to get the hell away from there. The fiddler looked up and gravely passed his violin over to the doorman. Whereupon that be-livered personage, shedding his austerity like mascara at a tear-jerker, caressed the fiddle fondly and held it up to his chin.

It was I assure you, a delight, and a surprise to stand and watch him give an impromptu recital, with a beggar's borrowed fiddle, there on Beckman pavement.

Gorillas were given their name in 1847 by a tropical missionary.

SWIG HORSE MILK
Shanghai, China. (A) —Vodka, sake, Chinese shaoxing and champagne are all familiar to Shanghai's cosmopolitan drinkers, but even "Old China Hands" generally are unaware that horse's milk may be obtained cafeteria style on downtown streets.

Instead of delivery in bottles, as in the case of cow's milk, the horse and her master patrol the streets about ten hours a day. Horse milk is a little cheaper than cow or goat milk and is popular with the reasonably well-to-do Chinese and with some Russian refugees.

NAZIS WARNED
Frankfurt-am-Main, Germany. (A) —The threat of "state enemy" hangs over all who fail to report any notice of the slightest possible trend toward "subversive or disruptive spirit" in Nazi Germany. Jakob Spengler of Frankfurt warned at a meeting here.

Admitting that it would take years, if not decades, to cement pure Nazi thinking and philosophy in the minds of the Germans, he said that negligence of the "watch work" was comparable with failure to do one's duty at one's job.

A Bystander In Washington

The ideal of "planned economy" lies behind much of the New Deal program. What does planned economy mean? What are the problems connected with it? Preston Grover, Washington columnist for the Appleton Post-Crescent, explains in a series of three articles, the first of which follows.

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington. — This country has taken several tentative steps in the direction of a planned economy, and before it takes further steps, some of which already are envisaged, the public should be shown the problems involved — and the changes entailed.

A planned economy is held up as a national program with clearly defined objectives, in contrast to haphazard progress in response to economic and social pressure groups. That way it sounds fine and wholesome and everybody is for it. But getting it is a frog in another parlor.

Under a planned economy, the production of industry would be governed by a plan instead of being left wholly to the influence of prices and markets.

NRA, AAA and the Guffey coal act included fragments of the machinery of a planned industry. The wage-hour and Joseph-plan farm bill carry additional. They do not go the whole way, by any means.

Set Quotas
Under a fully planned production system, each industry's output would be set by a national planning board.

There are hundreds of industries, thousands of factories. To make certain of exactly the right production to fill all needs and provide adequate jobs, quotas apparently would have to be assigned to each industry and to each factory. Prices in turn would be set at a level to insure demand for all the production. If the board could accurately arrive at such a goal, the plan likely would work.

Difficulties
But how could it? Could it control demand, or even predict it? Changes in weather, in styles, in public moods, and scores of other factors cause demand to fluctuate. Yet if a planned production is to work, factories must produce according to schedule, else a spiraling cycle of unemployment results, just as under the present unregulated system.

To preserve harmony in a planned production, undoubtedly a central governing board would have to be in control. Socialists say the plan system could not survive in the face of such centralized authority. And many economists agree with them.

(Tomorrow: Why not regulate production by managing wages and costs?)

Badger Industry Paid More Wages In Month of May

$5,293,264 Paid to 197,871 Workers in 1,018 Wisconsin Firms

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — Wisconsin industries paid out 13 per cent more wages in May than in April, the labor department reports.

According to reports from 1,018 Wisconsin firms, 197,871 workers, 1 per cent less than in April, were paid a total in wages of $5,293,264 in May.

In the country as a whole, Secretary of Labor Perkins announced, about 77,000 more workers were employed in May than in April and the total weekly pay roll increased by nearly $5,200,000.

"Comparisons of employment and pay rolls in these combined industries in May 1937 with May 1936 show an increase of more than 1,450,000 workers over the year interval, and an increase of nearly $70,000,000 in weekly pay rolls," Secretary Perkins said.

Report Increase
Increases in May employment were reported for the following industries important in Wisconsin: agricultural implements; automobiles; lumber and allied products; paper and pulp. Of these only lumber showed a decrease in payrolls during the same period.

With the exception of lumber and boots and shoes, all of these industries showed employment and pay rolls for May above the index average of 1923 through 1925. The index of 100, used by the Bureau of Labor Statistics to calculate increases and decreases in employment and pay rolls, is based upon the average monthly figures for the various industries in the years from 1923 through 1925.

Based upon this index, for example, employment in the automobile industry for May is 139.8 and pay roll 144.9. This means that for every thousand persons employed in an average month of the 3-year period from 1923 through 1925, 1,398 were employed in the industry in May. And likewise, with pay roll for every thousand dollars paid wage earners per week during the average month, $1,449 was paid them in May.

On the same basis, employment and pay rolls in May compared with April 1937 and May 1936 in industries

Receive Inquiries About Scout Camp From Distant Towns

Widespread interest in the Valley Council Boy Scout camps at Gardner Dam was indicated at the executive offices here today with inquiries received from Chicago, Erie, Pa., and Milwaukee. Because few vacancies remain in the 1-week periods, immediate paid registration has been advised.

The scheduled jamboree camp, July 11-18, has been canceled because of the conflict with the national jamboree camp at Washington, D. C., and camp will open officially with Paul Bunyan week, July 18-23. Rodeo camp will be held from July 23 to Aug. 1.

Other periods include: Mystery camp, Aug. 8-15; Pioneer camp, Aug. 15-22; Explorers camp, Aug. 22-29; Indian camp, Aug. 1-8. The first few periods are filled to capacity while a few vacancies exist for later dates.

Asks Expert to Settle Argument Over This Hand

(Copyright, 1937, Ely Culbertson)
"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I imagine that you are not fond of deciding arguments that have resulted in large wagers, but this time you may proceed with the virtuous feeling that it is for sweet charity. A friend of mine and I virtually put on the gloves over the enclosed hand. (He thinks he is an expert and I know I am, so these little set-tos are bound to occur from time to time.) We have wagered $100 on what your answer will be to one specific question, the loser send his check to a charitable organization. The bidding:

"Maybe the bidding was not so good, but that did not enter into our argument. Of course the take out of seven spades to seven no trump was based on nothing but nauseating conceit. South's idea being to play the hand himself rather than let North play it. (Guess which position I was in.)

"West opened the diamond queen. Declarer won and ran off five spade tricks. On the third, fourth, and fifth rounds West let go two hearts and one diamond. East, on the third round of spades, played the eight of hearts, on the fourth, the three, and on the fifth a diamond. The ace and king of clubs then were cashed and a third round led to the queen. Pausing only long enough to curse the fact that the club suit had not broken, South then took the heart finesse and when it lost to East's king, announced to the world that he was through with bridge for life and a day. While I personally applaud this decision heartily, I must ask you the following question: Did South play the hand correctly in the light of defenders' discards?"

"Yours very truly,
"N. R. A. Nashville."
I am sorry, but I cannot give a categorical answer to this question. The best line of play depends to a large degree on the credibility of East's heart signal. If East is the type player whose signals can be believed both by his partner and his opponents, declarer did not play the hand to the best advantage.

After running five rounds of spades, the ace of hearts and the second diamond trick should be cashed. The ace and king of clubs should follow, and the last spade should be cashed. With East actually holding the club stopper and the heart king, this spade would effect a squeeze. East would either have to throw away the heart king or unguard the club suit.

But, as I have said, this line of play is predicated on the fact that East actually held the heart king.

and the club stopper. Laying aside the question of East's heart signal and the credibility of same, the heart finesse is not to be criticized. Since, therefore, it becomes a question of properly appraising the defender's signaling habits, this court hereby refuses to pass decision, although deeply regretting that this refusal may result in sweet charity's being kyppered.

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. I. FARRINGTON

After the first of July, the cultivation of roses can be stopped, if it has grown irksome by that time, and a heavy mulch of peat grass given. This material will keep down the weeds to a large extent and will prevent the escape of moisture. Much less water will be needed when a mulch of this kind is depended upon. If the weather is dry, a certain amount of water should be given the roses, in any event. Rose plants appreciate water on the leaves at intervals, but it should be applied not later than the middle of the afternoon, because if the plants have wet foliage after nightfall, they are very likely to develop mildew.

My Neighbor Says—

Mignonette is one of several plants that dislike being moved, for which reason the seed should be sown where it is to flower. Moreover, the blooming season is comparatively short, so that two or three successive sowings at short intervals must be made to keep a supply of mignonette coming along all summer. It is a heavy feeder and bone meal or pulverized sheep manure should be mixed into the soil around the plants. Watering with liquid manure is beneficial after the buds show.

Use the purest of cider vinegar for pickles and pickled preserves. Do not mix two different kinds of vinegar.

Making Air Travel Safer

IV—BLIND FLING AND PROGRESS

Last year an aviator—Capt. Ira Eaker—made a flight across the United States while "flying blind." At all times there was a hood over the cockpit, so he could not see where he was going.

A View of Some of The Instruments in Front of Pilot's Seat.

That journey was not just a stunt. It was a proof that modern science has made it possible to steer an airplane through the thickest fog or darkest night. It was one more proof that blind flying is practical.

Even though care is taken to obtain weather reports before a journey is started, the pilot may meet bad weather during his journey. That is why a knowledge of blind flying is of great importance. The pilot can find his way whether he can see ahead of him or not.

Mr. Harold Cray, vice president of a large air line, tells the story of 10 years of progress in the magazine called "Airplanes," and says in part:

"When a person essayed a transcontinental air trip in July, 1927, he paid $400 for a one-way ticket. Arriving at the Oakland airport to start his flight, he saw a plane that was 1927's 'last word' in air transport. It was a single-engine biplane, of steel tube, wood and fabric construction. In the fuselage was a small compartment with chairs for two passengers. Toward the back of the fuselage was the pilot's open cockpit.

"In contrast to that small plane, the 12-ton Mainliner (of 1937) mounts two 14-cylinder, twin-row engines capable of 2,300 horse-power. It features 14 swivel lounge chairs in a cabin large enough for 21 standard seats. It has a cruising speed of 190 miles an hour at 60 per cent power. It flies across the continent with only three stops.

"In place of the small open cockpit, the Mainliner has a pilot compartment equipped with dual controls for captain and first officer, and is fitted with every aid to air navigation."

The inside of the pilots' compartment is fitted with far more instruments than any automobile. Many planes have "automatic pilots," which save the human pilots from much work when they are at high altitude.

Thanks to radio phones, the pilots can talk to airports, and hear special directions given by those at the airport. Notes on the weather are telephoned back and forth.

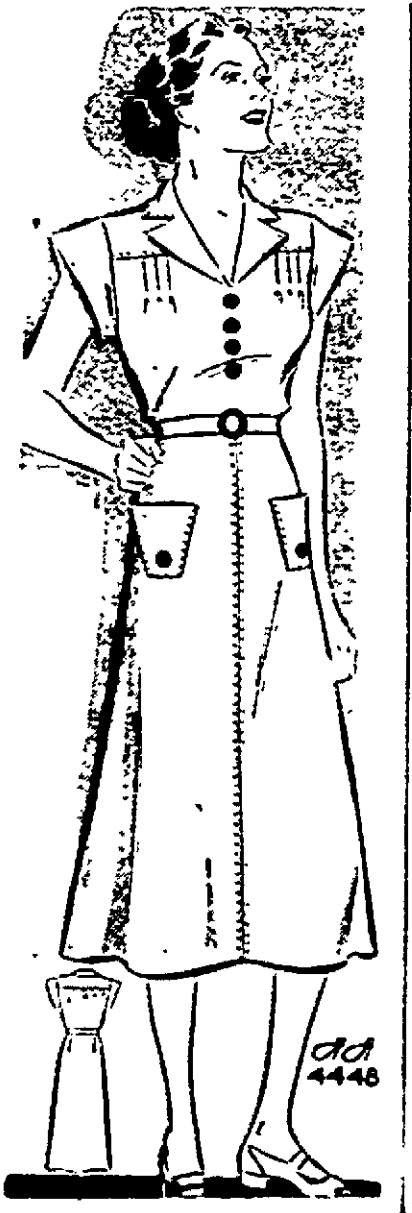

The "radio direction finder" is an invention which in recent years has added to safety in air travel. Still more recent is the "anti-storm static loop" which keeps static electricity from spoiling the radio control.

Keep Out Of Sunlight If You Freckle

BY ELSIE PIERCE
The freckle brigade is at it again. To tan but not to freckle. The wish, being father to the thought, prompts them to write "can it be done and how." The question is always the same. The answer, unfortunately, is "It can't be done."

Freckles, it must be remembered, are caused by an irregular formation of the color pigment in the skin. Sunlight causes the spots to multiply. The same sunlight that causes the skin to tan. Isn't it obvious, therefore, that one whose skin is inclined to freckle cannot face the sun without having the unwelcome crop increase?

In the case of freckles sunproofing preparations can help only to a limited extent. But so long as the sun is permitted to penetrate the skin sufficiently to darken it, it will simultaneously, have its effect on the freckles.

Shun The Sun
If you freckle readily and feel that freckles are a beauty liability, the best advice I can give you is: shun the sun—avoid the sunlight and you avoid freckles. Wear large hats; get under the shade of a parasol at the beach; use sunproofing preparations and use them generously, heavily. The heavy type creams and fairly heavy powders are necessary as barrier between cause and effect—meaning Old Sol and Friend Face.

The Ounce Of Prevention
You've probably had the "ounce of prevention" theory pounded home to you. If you object to the tediousness of it, let me hasten to assure you that in the case of freckles it is as true as the spots on your skin. Stay out of the sun entirely, use sunproofing creams, take all the necessary precautions and you will prevent more freckles from forming.

And, at the end of the summer, you will be blissfully absent from among those who raise the hue and cry "how to remove them." The business of removing freckles is by no means easy, by no means entirely safe and commendable. Many so-called freckle removers contain mercury which may be quite dangerous to those allergic to this chemical. In fact, any drug or preparation strong enough actually to remove the freckles may be strong enough to injure the surrounding tissue. Mild bleaches that gradually make the freckles lighter until they are practically imperceptible are something else again.

My detailed bulletin called "Freckles—How to Cope With Them" may be had for a self-addressed, stamped (2-cent) envelope. Please call for the bulletin by name. Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

WHAT TO WEAR AND WHEN
Dear Mrs. Post: Will you describe the most appropriate type of clothes for a woman guest to wear at a garden wedding?

Answer: Any summer dress would be appropriate but perhaps the best would be a light, bright, printed silk or flowered chiffon, simply made with an ankle length skirt, and with which she wears gloves and hat. It chooses chiffon, the type of dress that has a low cut bodice and jacket over it, which can be taken off in the evening, would perhaps be most useful afterwards. On the other hand, a tailored frock in bright gay colors would be just as appropriate. A wide brimmed hat is particularly suitable with a very sheer dress. With a heavier material the question is a wide brim or a small one would depend upon becomingness to the wearer's type of looks. In either case, the more tailored the hat, the smarter.

Dear Mrs. Post: I live in the country and could not bear to brave the heat of the city to go to a big wedding taking place in an hotel. If it were not that the bride is the daughter of one of my old friends, will you tell me the type of clothes I am likely to find on women guests at a city wedding in midsummer?

Answer: My answer to the question above this one is equally applicable to you. Perhaps bright colors would take the place of light ones but in midsummer people would wear in town very much what they would wear at a wedding in the country.

Dear Mrs. Post: May one suitably wear cotton gloves with silk dresses in summer weather? Somehow cotton gloves and silk dresses do not seem to go together.

Answer: If you can find a fabric

Force will not cure fear. Force breeds fear, the very thing you want to cure. Many children are strengthened in their fears by the people who are trying to cure them.

"Yes, you will go upstairs! And this minute! And you will go without a light. I'm not going to have you behave like a baby. A great big boy of seven afraid of the dark? You march right upstairs and bring me your overcoat so I can sew on that button before bedtime."

"Now Annabelle, this is sheer nonsense. There is nothing about Aunt Lizzie to make you afraid of her. You go right up to her and kiss her sweetly and say, 'How do you do?' . . . But I'm telling you that you must. You hear me? Want a spanking? Well, that is what you are going to get if you don't go this minute and greet Aunt Lizzie as a child ought to."

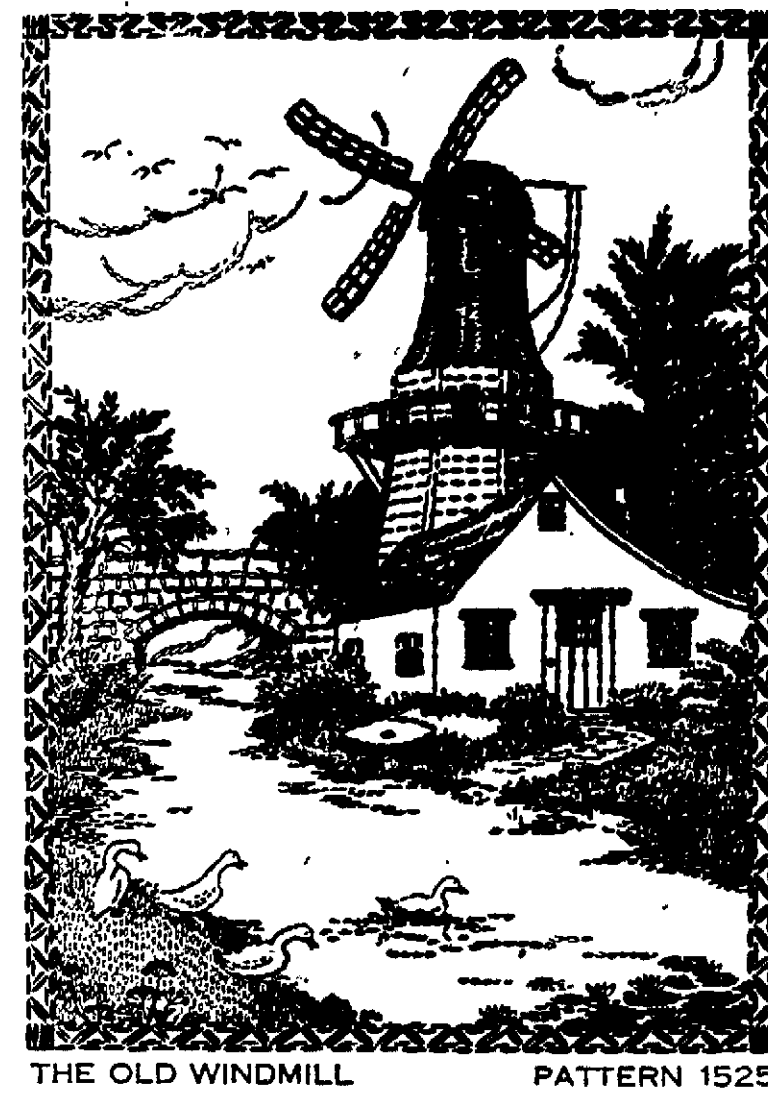

"O, for pity sake, Morris. Stroke the kitty. It won't bite you. See. There, pet the kitty. I never did see such a coward as this child is. Morris, you hear me? Pet the kitty. If you don't I'll throw her right in your lap. There! Such a coward. Afraid of the kitten. . . . Stop that yelling this minute or I'll attend to you I'm ashamed to have a boy afraid of a kitten's fur."

Now this is well-meant, but cruelly just the same. For some reason, hidden even from the child, he is afraid. He depends upon his mother and father, and his relatives generally, to see him past all the lions that beset his path. He leans hard on their courage and their help. When instead of helping him they turn on him and give him reason to fear them, along with the other things he feels forsaken, ill-used, dreadfully alone. Feeling alone and helpless is the signal for the onset of fear.

Nobody needs to be told that fear is a poison that destroys courage, initiative, progress and health. Everything possible should be done to prevent fear because once it has been set it is removed only with great difficulty, over a long series of experiences that require time for their interpretation.

The best cure for fear is to put confidence in its place, but that is extremely difficult. Confidence fled when fear was born, and it has to be coaxed back slowly, gently and surely. Build it by experience upon experience. Don't argue down the fear; carry the child safely by

Love of Girl For Married Cannot Bring Happiness

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I am a modern young woman employed as a stenographer in a modern office with a large personnel. Among them is a married man with whom I have fallen in love. He is a splendid man in every way, devoted to his family and very religious. If he returns my affection he has never given the slightest sign, not even that he knows that I love him, just treats me with the courteous consideration a gentleman would show a lady. What must I do, Dorothy Dix? Don't dare tell me to give him up. I love him too much for that and I want to be his. I would do anything to win him—anything. Is there anything more cruel than a girl falling in love with another woman's husband—a man who is not a profligate?

BEWILDERED

married man, because the end of it is bound to be heartbreak for one or more or all concerned in it.

And unhappily this catastrophe happens so often; indeed, it is almost inevitable now that men and women work together in offices and are thrown together in an intimacy that fosters sentiment, and it has become one of the great social menaces of modern life. It is so easy for a young girl, her head full of romantic dreams to fall in love with her boss or the man at the next desk. He is older, more sophisticated, has more poise, is more dominant than the callow boys with whom she has associated, and before she knows it she has gone off the deep end.

Sometimes the man is a philanderer who makes love to her and takes her out to parties and plays with her until he gets tired and then throws her over, careless that he has ruined her good name and filled her heart so full of love for him that she will never have room in it for any other man. Sometimes the man is a gentleman, who tries to protect the girl against her own folly and who refuses to take the leads she offers him, and that means that the girl is left to suffer the tortures of unrequited love and baffled desire.

In any case, there can be no happy solution of the problem for the girl who is in love with a married man unless she is utterly conscienceless, because her only hope of happiness is by committing a crime against another woman that she hopes and prays no other woman will commit against her. For to get her man she must take him away from his wife, she must make him traitor to his every duty and obligation, she must wreck a home and rob children of their father.

That is what you are planning to do, and I think that even if you succeed you will find little happiness in your victory with this sin upon your soul. For this man is a good man, putting up a fight against you and your seductions, trying to lead a clean and decent life and keep the vows he made at the altar; and if you do win out and make him divorce his wife and marry you he will hate you for it as soon as the fire of his passion has died down.

He will despise you for what you have done, and despite himself for having been weak enough to yield to you, and you will have wrecked his life as well as his wife's and children's.

The wise thing for you to do is to go away from this man and forget your unhappy love affair. You can easily do it at your age. And leave the man in peace to be happy with his wife and children.

Don't make a child tell his name, say how-do-you-do, or recite a piece. Make the suggestion, let it pass. The child in time will want to speak. Then he will, and there will be an end of his fear. Force will not cure fear.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped addressed envelope for reply.

his wife and children. If you really love him, you will do it.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am very much in love with a boy who is not in my class. His people are lazy and shiftless. I would be ashamed to introduce any of them to my folks and I certainly wouldn't have any of them come to live with me. My sweetheart is crude and careless in his dress and manners and for two years I have done all I could to try to improve him. We studied the etiquette book and I corrected his table manners and told him when he did things that were wrong. He takes my scolding with a good grace and never makes the same mistakes again, but he does something else just as bad. Do you think that if we married and went to some distant place to live that we could make a go of it? Do you think I can make him more careful, or is his way of doing things born in him? I love him, but will I be happy with him?

DONABEL

Answer:
Not if conventions are the most important thing in the world to you and you rate a man's desirability as a husband by his table manners. No matter how strict you are with him, he will always be slipping and getting on your nerves.

But, generally speaking, those who in their youth ate instead of dined, who washed instead of bathed, and who took their grammar as they found it continue that way to the bitter end. They are rocks of habit upon which their wives beat themselves in vain.

Anyway, I don't think a marriage has much chance of happiness when the wife sets herself up as mentor to her husband and rubs in his inferiority at every turn. Men don't like that. They want their wives to look up to them, to admire them and to flatter them, and when they don't they are mighty likely to stray off to some woman who rubs their fur the right way instead of being a critic on the hearth.

Also, it seems to me very unfair for a woman to marry a man and then begin tormenting him by trying to make him over. If she didn't like him, she should have left him alone. Nor has a woman any right to ask her husband to give up his family because she feels herself above them. That's cruel to the parents who bore him and worked to support him in his youth. And it doesn't make a man any fonder of his wife for her to snoot his mother.

So, on the whole, my advice to you is to marry in your own class a man of whose table etiquette you approve and let poor Norman alone. It will certainly be a great break for him.

President and Congress Spoiling for Real Fight

BY MORGAN M. BEATTY
Washington—(P)—Headlines tell a confusing story of troubles between the president and some of the Democratic majority in congress.

Some of them hint pretty strongly of a congressional revolt against White House rule. The "revolt" may turn out to be just a family hair-pulling contest—but there is one serious aspect to family spats: they sometimes lead to a wide open split.

The situation is confusing because each time a rift appears, the issue at stake is different.

One day it's the Supreme Court issue, the next it's again it's flood control, or tax-dodging. Each time, congressmen who disagree with the president explain their stand carefully enough, but the explanation is all clogged up with the details of the question of the moment.

Strip each issue down to fundamentals, and you'll find the rebels suspect the executive of trying to invade legislative territory, or vice versa. And every time one branch of our government suspects another of raiding its domain, political fireworks follow.

Sometimes the president wins; sometimes congress or the Supreme Court; more often the differences are compromised and each branch gets enough satisfaction to save its public face.

No Coat Tail Threat
But there's no denying that the political stage is rigged this year for a knock-down, drag-out party split if either the president or congress loses his, or its, head.

Mr. Roosevelt is in his second term, and congressmen can expect another standard bearer in 1940. Therefore, there can be no threats to withhold presidential coat tails from congressmen who might need to ride them to victory. If politics follows the normal course, there will be no Rooseveltian coat tails three years hence. And, too, many congressmen will have to face the electorate next year, long before any presidential timber arrives on the political scene.

But more important in the current chip-on-the-shoulder contest, is this fact:

The president did not choose to take congressional leaders into his confidence when he proposed to enlarge the Supreme Court in his favor. Not only did he take his own party majority by surprise, but he had the audacity to pin to his message a draft of the legislation he wanted.

Now congressmen have always jealously guarded their right to sponsor legislation. After all, they feel the people have hired them to do the law-making. Even if they don't draft all legislation, at least they want to look it over in advance and approve it.

But in the highly important case of the Supreme Court bill, the president skipped the formalities. Then what happened?

Kick in the Pants
The public did not unanimously back the president. The issue became murky enough, in fact, to tempt some Democratic senators of the New Deal program. Here was a chance to kick one of the president's pet ideas in the pants. And kick it they did, through a committee report denouncing the idea as un-American.

The president did not carry his strong tactics quite so far into the rest of his legislative program, but he has gone far enough to set cloak-room tongues wagging, and finally, to start some representatives and senators to thinking out loud.

For instance:
Mr. Roosevelt asked as usual for a blank check to spend $1,500,000,000 on relief for the unemployed in 1938. The house balked. A huge "economy bloc" insisted a sizable slice of this spending money be earmarked for roads, flood control, etc. In the midst of the struggle, Representative Joe Starnes of Alabama put the issue rather frankly. Said he: "We are fighting for congressional control over federal funds." And fight they did until they won a compromise from the White House that saved their faces, if nothing else.

Love Feast
Said the ever independent Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, one day:

"The resolution (inspired by the White House) for an inquiry into tax dodging gives treasury employees too much power."

Treasury employees being under the executive branch of the government, which Mr. Roosevelt very definitely runs, congress took heed to what Mr. Borah said, and the resolution was modified so that congress conducted and controlled the investigation. The president had wanted the treasury to do the job.

And so on down the line, until some of the stalwarts decided to hold a love-feast on secluded Jefferson Island off the Maryland shore, far from the roar of congressional debate with the president there to talk, and listen.

Can the Democratic family get together and finish out the current term of congress without the kind of fight that clips political careers and leaves a scar that will always show?

The odds are about even.

Marinette-Co Leads in County Forest Lands

Northern Area Has 20,000 More Acres Than State Itself

Post Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—As the result of recent acquisitions, Marinette county now has more county forest land than any other county in Wisconsin, and has 20,000 acres more than the state of Wisconsin itself, according to F. G. Wilson, superintendent of the cooperative forestry division of the state conservation department.

Wilson praised the Marinette county government for its leadership in county conservation work in the state. The county now has on its rolls 194,000 acres of county forest land, and during the past few years has undertaken an extensive improvement program, he said.

Assisted by CCC workers there has been much improvement cutting and recreation sites along the Peshtigo river have been developed. Wilson also pointed to the county's acquisition of the Strong Falls site on the Peshtigo, the only natural falls left on the river. At present surveyors are remapping the county.

"Marinette county has also made it a point to relocate isolated settlers in the county, reducing the tax load for roads and other facilities to these residences. Last year one school district in a sparsely settled and isolated section was eliminated entirely," he explained.

Bald Mountains
Raleigh, N. C.—(P)—The bald spots on mountains of high altitude, says Dr. B. W. Wells of North Carolina State college, were brought on by Indian camps of a former day.

In the opinion of Dr. Wells the Indian camps gave mountain cat-grass and sedge a chance to gain a foothold and once these grasses got started, they were able to "freeze out" all trees, shrubs, and other vegetation normally growing at those high altitudes.

Gehrkes Eke Out Win Over Edisons For Championship

Millers Defeat Plywoods, 9 to 2, to Take Second Place

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE
	W. L.	Pct.
Gehrkes	4 1	.800
High Lifes	3 1	.750
Hamiltons	3 2	.600
Bordens	2 2	.500
Edisons	1 4	.200
Plywoods	1 4	.200

New London — Gehrke Brothers Hardware softball team clinched the first half championship in the City Industrial Softball league last night when they barely squeezed out the Edison team, 6 to 5, in a game under the lights. Earlier in the evening Millers High Lifes defeated the Plywoods 9 to 2 to hold second place. That place will be strongly contested Friday night when Bordens will tangle with the High Lifes in the last game of the first half of the schedule. Play in the second half will begin next week.

The Gehrkes championship game really was decided on errors. It turned out that three runs which Gehrkes scored in the second inning after Art Bunke fumbled a pop fly in right field, gave the winners the deciding margin. Mike Justinger suffered the same trouble for Gehrkes in the fourth inning but it only amounted to one run, Augie Becker behind the plate also added an error to the Edisons' grief in the second inning.

Manager Bunke's error came with two hard men on bases and two already down. He replaced himself with Stanley Christian who played a good game at first base the rest of the game. Justinger on the opposite side was relieved by Melvin Wolfarth. The challengers threatened often to take the game and nearly every inning were returned with two or three men holding down bases.

Several home runs lived the hitting early in the game. Sam Huzzar slammed one into right center field second up for Gehrkes in the first inning and Magalska sprinted around for the woodworkers in the second inning to lead 2 to 1 until Gehrkes scored those four runs in the last of that inning.

While White allowed 11 hits to the Gehrkes, the offerings of the latter were taken for doubles by Schultz and Orin Krohn in the decisive second inning when Gotschalk's support failed him. George Edminster's double combined with Justinger's error on Magalska accounted for the two Edison runs in the fourth inning.

The Edison hurler whiffed seven and walked one and White chalked up three of each variety.

Win in First.

The Millers High Lifes took the game from the Plywoods right in the first innings when they batted all around for eight hits, a walk and seven runs. Carl Eberls and Maurice McDermott counted doubles. Pitcher Servis was off form for the Plywoods and depended on his mates to stop the ball. He struck out two and walked three.

Ullrich held the woodworkers to pop flies and the High Life fielders put them down in quick succession. Shortest got in a good night's work at shortstop as batters were walked and Ullrich fanned only one. Huntley led the Plywood hitting with two safe drives one a double in the first inning that left him stranded when his side retired.

Pete Westphal is slated to take the mound for the Brews with Orin Krohn catching. The Munsch brothers will form the battery for the invaders. The game is called for 8:30.

Prepare for Oiling Of W. Wolf Avenue

New London — The street department yesterday began tearing up W. Wolf avenue in preparation for oiling. The work is being done, not because the road has become dusty but because the heavy traffic on that street has made the road as rough as a corduroy. Street Superintendent Albert Gesse pointed out. The cost of the oiling will be drawn from the city's general fund.

The amount of milk given by cows drops decidedly in climates where the temperature is above 85 degrees.

Double Tennis Court Near Completion in Kimberly

Kimberly — The double tennis court which is now under construction on Main street, behind the bank, is expected to be completed next week. Dud Courchane of the street and bridge committee announced Wednesday.

Workmen have been busy on the court for the last few weeks and are now putting on the finishing touches. A back-stop will be set up on each end of the court and fencing similar to that around the swimming pool will also be used around the courts.

The court is built up with gravel, top dressing, screen sand and asphalt. The bottom layer is made of a level fill of gravel with three and one-half inches of oil mix gravel on top; next to the gravel is one inch top dressing of one-quarter inch screen sand treated with a cut back asphalt. A spray of clear asphalt is on the top for a sealing coat.

Another court near the one now being completed is expected to be finished in September.

Several hundred persons have joined the Kimberly club since the swimming pool opened. Many parents have joined the club to give their children the right to use the pool. Last year there were over six hundred members and it is expected that the club will again have a large membership. There was no campaign this year. Statements were sent out that the club dues were due and individuals renewed their membership at the clubhouse.

New envelopes have been sent to parishioners of Holy Name church this week. Members of the parish will arrive Friday to visit at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Long.

the WORLD of STAMPS

BY JAMES B. HATCHER

Ever since 988, Monaco has belonged to the House of Grimaldi. The present prince, Louis II, is pictured in a medallion, ennobled uniform on the two high values of a new charity set from this Riviera principality.

Louis is primarily a soldier, for he served 30 years in the French army before succeeding his father, Prince Albert the oceanographer, on the Monacan throne. His parents separated and Lady Mary Douglas Hamilton, his mother, carried him off to Scotland where Louis grew up.

At 23 he entered the French army. While serving as a young officer with the Foreign Legion in Algeria, he had a romantic affair with Juliette Louvet, an obscure French girl. Their daughter, Charlotte, was adopted as hereditary princess, but has since renounced the right of succession in favor of her 14-year-old son, Prince Rainier.

Louis served as a cavalry commander in the World war with title of brigadier-general. Today he usually lives in his Paris residence or his chateau at Marchais, France. The new set includes five stamps. Three show verdant scenes of Monaco—50-centime plus 50c bright green, 90c plus 90c vermilion and 1.50-franc plus 1.50-franc ultramarine. Louis' portrait appears on the 2-f plus 2-f violet and 5-f plus 5-f brown red.

Out on the southern coast of China's Kwangtung province lies a small territory called Ywan Chau Wan which belongs to France and is administered by Indo-China. This 200-square-mile territory uses Indo-China stamps overprinted "Kouangtchou" the French official spelling of Kwang Chau Wan (or Kwangchowwan).

The latest set for Kwang Chau Wan consists of the usual overprint on the 1931-32 set of Indo-China (21 stamps). The overprint is in black capitals on all but the 10- and 15-cent stamps. On them it's red.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Most memorable of World war films was "All Quiet on the Western Front." Its sequel by Erich Maria Remarque, now completed for the screen, is "The Road Back."

The picture like the war shattered German youths who seek the road back to a foot hold in reality never quite get there. James Whale's production is magnificent in theme, in photography, and in mob action. And in the whole it is a disappointment.

The film begins in the trenches on Armistice day, where "All Quiet" ended. The soldiers, little more than boys when they went to war, return home to find Germany in revolution, their elders still mouthing the conventional phrases of glory and patriotism, and their part they played in guiding markets was difficult to determine.

From a mid-year perspective, one of the most significant developments to many observers was indication that Washington had thrown its weight against rising prices, apparently afraid that recovery might turn into a feverish inflationary boom, fed by the vast supply of potential credit in the banking system.

sweethearts changed. Life has gone on at home while for the boys it has stood still.

Out of their homecomings dramatically poignant moments arise, and the film has many of those—but isolated, not on any trail to a dramatic climax. Such climax as there is comes from the shooting of a munitions profiteer by one of the boys (Maurice Murphy) who finds his sweetheart has been stolen. At the trial the soldiers plead that the killer has murdered many men he had no cause to hate—why should he not kill the man who has ruined his life?

The film, far from finding the road back to "All Quiet's" power and importance, skirts the broad highway and marks time in the by-paths of comedy relief, evasion, and philosophic discussion of the futility and foolishness of war. It treats the German revolution in comic opera style, for the most part, and the prominence of comedy—supplied mainly by Slim Summerville, Andy Devine and Louise Fazenda—amounts to a confession of the futility of making pictures about the futility of war when things are as they are.

The dramatic leads are Murphy, John King (new to features, handsome and promising) and Richard Cromwell.

You have to know an actor's financial mathematics before you decide he's daffy for turning down

Most of State's Major Highways Open for Fourth

Fourth of July weekend, expected to see the heaviest traffic of the year, will find most of the major highways of the state open for travel over their entire lengths, and the more heavily populated sections of the state free from detours.

The State Highway Commission urges motorists planning a trip over the weekend to inspect the state detour map before starting out, copies being on display in county highway offices, hotels, tourist information offices, garages and filling stations.

This week's detour map published by the state shows the following marked detours in this section of Wisconsin:

- List Detours
- STH 64, between Pound and Marinette, marked detour over CTH "B" and US 41.
- STH 22, two sections between Oconto and Gillett; marked detour over STH 29.
- US 45, between Tigerton and Wittenberg; marked detour over CTH "J" and STH 23.

Short marked detours at north limits of Neenah and of Sheboygan. STH between Chilton and New Holstein closed for paving; marked detour over CTH's "G" and "H".

US 151, in the western Manitowish county; marked detour from Valders to Collins, then rejoining US 151.

US 141, short detour in Ozaukee county between Port Washington and Grafton.

Every detour is in good condition, well-marked and safe for travel. State highway officials point out that a detour sign is a mark of progress, indicating road improvement is under way.

Several counties will have additional traffic patrolmen on duty over the holiday, attempting to prevent accidents and keep the heavy travel stream flowing smoothly.

He was a charter member of the Catholic Knights of Wisconsin and served as a trustee of the Charlesburg chapter for 44 years. He also was a member of the Holy Name society.

State Ends Year With Cash on Hand

See Balance of Approximately $7,000,000 In Funds

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—The state entered a new fiscal year today with a cash balance on hand, on the basis of figures compiled by Auditor General George T. Gundry.

Gundry said state revenues for the year that ended Wednesday totaled $218,263,927.54. Disbursements as of June 29 totaled $211,525,876.64. He explained it would be another two weeks before the books could be closed on disbursements but that "those still to come will not approximate the $7,000,000 difference between income and expenditures. We have ended the year in the black."

Final figures for the close of the fiscal year on June 30, 1936, showed revenue as $201,360,844.89 with disbursements of $195,766,800.33.

The state, although it had "money in the bank" at the close of this year faced an imbalanced budget left by the 1937 legislature. The best estimates disagreed as to whether the legislature had left a prospective deficit of $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 between pledged expenditures and anticipated income for the coming 12 months.

Able-Bodied Dropped From Merrill Rolls

Merrill, Wis.—(AP)—All able-bodied men were dropped from relief rolls here today because of curtailment of state funds.

WPA workers also were notified that they must support themselves and their families on wages received, all supplemental aid being discontinued.

newspaper divisions said the Soviets had mobilized 300,000 men in 13 divisions of their vast Far Eastern red army, supported by planes, armored cars and tanks.

The Mikado, after the cabinet meeting, called Navy Minister Admiral Yonai to his palace to give him the newest developments. These developments, presumably were contained in secret army and navy dispatches.

Warning to Moscow

(In Moscow, the Japanese ambassador warned the soviet government in strong tones to evacuate its armed forces from the vicinity of Manchoukou-claimed Amur river islands, which are sandbanks that vanish at flood tide.)

Both Russia and Japan were reported mobilizing their armed forces along the Amur river boundary between Manchoukou and Siberia where the Japanese army reported its artillery had sunk one Russian warship, disabled another, and forced a third to flee.

Kaukauna Man Granted Decree in Divorce Suit

Vernon Kramer, 21, Kaukauna, was granted an absolute divorce from Ione Kramer, 20, Turin, Mich., in municipal court yesterday by Judge Thomas H. Ryan. Kramer charged cruel and inhuman treatment. The couple was married Dec. 24, 1936 and separated in April, 1937. No children were involved in the suit.

South of Sennufo island, declared a fleet of 40 Russian gunboats had "invaded" the channel of the Amur and opened fire on Japanese and Manchoukouan soldiers who were bathing. Sennufo island is one of a group in the river claimed by both Russia and Manchoukou.

It was the latest and gravest of 185 illegal acts by Russian forces against Manchoukou in recent months, the army spokesmen charged.

The army dispatches declared their artillery immediately opened fire on the Russian fleet and defeated it decisively. One gunboat was said to be lying at the bottom of the Amur on the Manchoukou side of the river while the battered hulk of another was stranded on a beach up the river.

No details of the engagement were available here but a terse report from Japanese general headquarters in Hsinking declared "soviet losses are far greater than imagined."

Virtually Ultimatum
The cabinet's decision was immediately sent to Japanese Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu in Moscow who presented the virtual ultimatum, demanding immediate withdrawal of all Russian troops, to the soviet government.

Meeting with Premier Fumimaro Konohe were Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, General Gen Sugiyama, minister of war, and Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, minister of marine.

Latest dispatches reaching here from the northern Manchoukouan border said an infuriated red army was feverishly concentrating all available land, naval, and air forces at Boyarkov, south of Biagovshehensk. The disputed islands where the engagement took place lie off Biagovshehensk.

A report to the newspaper Nichiichi declared the soviet had mobilized 10 infantry divisions and 3 cavalry divisions, a total of 300,000 troops.

In support, the dispatch said, were 1,000 fighting planes, 600 armored cars and 1,000 tanks. Opposed to these on the opposite side of the international boundary formed by the Amur were large concentrations of the crack Japanese army maintained in Manchoukou and the advance units of the entire Manchoukouan land forces.

Valley Group Is Not Satisfied With '37 Session

Principal Complaint Is Lack of Legislation For Farmers

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison — Fox River Valley assemblymen will return to their homes Friday afternoon at the close of the regular 1937 session of the legislature, dissatisfied with their last six months' work, they reported here yesterday.

Principal complaint of the Valley representatives, and many other members of both houses, is the failure of the legislature to pass legislation of practical benefit to those who make their livelihood on the farm. Assemblymen William Sweeney of Kaukauna and William Rohan of Kaukauna, both Democrats, declared that from the point of view of the farmer, the session has been a failure.

Sweeney attributed the failure to the faction strife in the house which has been evident for months. Because the Progressives were divided on their own program, Sweeney declared, legislative progress was difficult. He referred to the now wide open breach between the old line Progressives, those who joined the movement during the day of the elder Robert M. LaFollette, and the newly amalgamated leftist elements, who call themselves the Farmer-Labor-Progressive federation, and who include the principal remnants of the Wisconsin Socialist party.

"I am glad we (the Democrats) didn't organize the house. Now we won't be responsible for the results," Sweeney said.

Rohan agreed that the farmers of Wisconsin have been almost completely forgotten in the session now ending. Progressives will point to the passage of the labor relations act as evidence of a good piece of work, Rohan said. "But is that act of any value?" he asked. "They're still striking all over the state, aren't they?" Rohan voted for the labor bill.

Nothing on Security
Assemblyman Frank J. Lingelbach of Oconto county pointed out that nothing has been done on old age pensions or other social security problems and hoped that these subjects will be included in the business of the special session, which it is assured will follow later this summer.

Assemblyman Harold A. Lytle lost his fight this week to obtain passage of the fair trades practices bill, in which he has been interested during the whole session. Lytle, as an officer of the state barbers' organization, and as chairman of their legislative committee for many years, has been working for fair trades legislation for the last eight years.

Mark Catlin, Jr., Appleton assemblyman, is dissatisfied because of his losing fight for the integrated bar bill, proponents of which have given up hope. On the whole, he feels little has been accomplished during his six months residence in Madison as a member of the house.

Henry Hupfaut, Calumet county assemblyman, explained that he is disappointed because of the defeat of the bill to prevent diversion of highway funds, one of the best bills of the session, he said.

Sauthoff Seeks Three Changes in Wage-Hour Bill

Makes Suggestions in Letter to House Labor Committee Chairman

Washington — (AP)— Representative Harry Sauthoff, Madison, Wis., Progressive, offered three suggestions today for "rounding out" the wages and hours bill, being considered by the house labor committee.

New matter proposed by Sauthoff in a letter to Representative Mary T. Norton, committee chairman, would govern issuance of injunctions and sale of securities, and seek to prevent strikes "without just cause."

Sauthoff's letter recommended in part: "Insert a section in the bill that no injunction shall be issued against the government, or any of its agencies, restraining the carrying out of any provisions of this measure until and unless sufficient evidence is produced by the petitioner in a court hearing showing by a clear preponderance of evidence that irreparable injury will be done the petitioner unless such an injunction is granted and also that the injury to the petitioner will be greater than to the defendants."

"World Avert Strikes"
"Permit no strike to take place in any plant unless and until grievances have been presented in writing to the national board of industrial relations and a certain time has elapsed for such board to negotiate a satisfactory settlement based on the grievances so filed."

"In any new or additional issuance of securities of an employer, either stocks or bonds, let these securities first be offered to the employees of the company at a price equal to actual worth, less commissions, fees, etc. In event a company does not issue new or additional securities provide some method by which the employee can take up treasury stocks or securities offered on the open market."

"In event employees avail themselves of such an offering let them pay for the securities by reasonable monthly installments from their pay checks. Such an investment by employees would make for stability and a closer union between the company and those who work for it."

Activities of Jamboree Camp Will be Broadcast

Inquiries received at the executive offices of the Valley Council of Boy Scouts in Appleton regarding the broadcasting of activities at the jamboree camp in Washington, D. C., prompted release of the following information today:

"The most extensive radio coverage from the national capital since the President Roosevelt inaugural broadcast last January will tell millions of parents, Boy Scouts and their friends throughout the world the daily story of the national jamboree, from June 30 to July 9, in which more than 25,000 American boys will take part.

"The National Broadcasting company will erect a studio in a forty-foot circular tent at general jamboree headquarters within the shadow of the Washington monument. This studio, radio executives said, will be as important and as well equipped as many of the smaller stations on their networks. At the height of operations between 50 and 100 radio engineers, announcers, production men and other experts will be on the job.

"The 'Jamboree City' of 350 acres will have its broadcasting studio linked with the Washington master control and through that to the New York master control of both the National Broadcasting company's red and blue networks, totaling 120 stations. In addition either short wave stations W2XAD, Schenectady, N. Y., or W3XAL, Bound Brook, N. J., will carry jamboree programs to radio other parts of the world.

"The Jamboree city broadcasting studio will be used by prominent radio newscasters who will visit the Scouts and broadcast their regular programs from the camp. Boy Scouts and their leaders from all parts of the United States and also many of the 400 Scouts who will come here from 24 foreign lands.

"In addition to the studio at the jamboree headquarters there will be in daily use a mobile unit—a streamlined truck equipped with two complete broadcasting stations. Licensed the same as any fixed radio station, it will move to the scenes of any activities where there may not be radio pick-up points. The mobile unit can send its signals 25 miles or more if necessary in order to get onto the national networks.

"Pick-up points are the terminals of radio lines each equipped with a standard studio microphone or a hand microphone. There will be two such pick-up points atop the 555-foot Washington monument, four in the studio at the headquarters camp with a 'roving microphone' that would enable any person within headquarters camp to go on the air and two in the arena at the base of the Washington monument where Scout shows will be put on the evenings of July 1, 2, 3, 6, 7 and 8.

"Another feature of the broadcasting arrangements will be the pack-set unit. With complete sending and receiving equipment fitting into a pack the size of the typical Scout knapsack, a roving announcer will hike through many parts of the camp and tell what he sees. A broadcasting station in himself, he can be heard by millions of listeners throughout the world, through the pre-arranged networks.

"A partial list of the 'special events' to be broadcast over the NBC networks follows:
June 30—Flag raising ceremonies in the morning marking the official opening of Jamboree Camp with its 25,000 boys, the largest gathering of youth in the history of the western hemisphere; evening broadcast of the opening jamboree camp fire program with prominent Americans as speakers.

July 4—A non-sectarian inspirational convocation in the evening with 25,000 Scouts participating at the base of the Washington monument, one of the high spots of the jamboree.

July 5—Scout Pilgrimage in the morning to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier; evening celebration of Independence Day with 25,000 Scouts seeing a colorful fireworks display and hearing a band concert.

July 8—Mobile broadcasting unit will describe President Roosevelt's drive down Constitution avenue from the Capitol to the White House reviewing the 'stationary parade' of 25,000 Scouts lined on both sides of the historic street. Reception later at the White House grounds; closing night at the Jamboree. Farewell interviews with Scouts, band music and short talks by principal jamboree camp chiefs.

Miss Ruth Plumb of Manitowoc Wins Northeastern Golf Title

MISS RUTH PLUMB of Manitowoc won the championship of the Northeastern Wisconsin Women's Golf association at Butte des Morts Golf club this morning when she defeated Mrs. C. B. Rich of Green Bay, 5 and 4. It is the second time that Miss Plumb has won the championship. She was runner-up the last three years.

Mrs. Rich won the first hole this morning, but Miss Plumb evened the match on the second, won the fourth and fifth and then continued to an easy victory. Her long drives on the fairways and off the tees made for the difference in their shooting.

The card follows:
Par Out 445 636 355-41
Plumb 555 637 354-43
Rich 465 756 455-47
Par In 553 55
Plumb 363 55
Rich 663 65

Miss Plumb went into the finals with a 2 and 1 victory over Miss Margaret Ann Wall, Menominee, Mich., in a match that featured generally steady golf. Miss Plumb picked up a 2-hole lead on the first nine holes but the margin was cut to one when Miss Wall took the tenth hole with a single putt of about 15 feet.

Miss Plumb again went 2-up on the eleventh when Miss Wall found trouble in the trap to the left of the green. On the twelfth Miss Plumb put her tee shot into the creek and both women turned in some bad putting as Miss Wall won the hole and again became one down.

The thirteenth saw Miss Plumb go two up principally because Miss Wall dubbed her first wood shot on the fairway. The fourteenth was halved but on the fifteenth Miss Plumb drove into the rough on the right and then to the bunker on the left and was to the left of the green with her third shot. Miss Wall was on in two and two-putted for a four. Miss Wall went one down on the hole.

Shot Is Short
On the sixteenth Miss Wall's second shot was short while Miss Plumb was on the green in two. However, Miss Wall sank a long putt to halve the hole. The end came on the seventeenth when Miss Plumb put her ball on the green and took two putts for a par three while Miss Wall drove over the green and failed to get the ball down in one putt.

The two women had 45's for the first nine while Miss Plumb had a 36 and Miss Wall a 38 when they stopped playing on the seventeenth. Mrs. Rich went into the finals when her putting touch suddenly became sensational on the twelfth hole and continued until she sank a seven-foot putt on the seventeenth for a birdie two and a victory. The loser was Mrs. E. Foulk, Oshkosh, and the score 2 and 1.

Mrs. Rich was two down at the end of nine holes and lost the tenth and eleventh to go four down. Then her putter started to click and she won the twelfth with a four, the thirteenth with a par five, the fourteenth with a birdie four and the fifteenth with a par four to halve the match. On the sixteenth she turned in a birdie four and then on the seventeenth laid her tee shot about seven feet from the pin and canned the putt for another birdie and a victory.

This morning Miss Plumb defeated Mrs. C. B. Rich, Green Bay, 5 and 4, to win the association championship. At the right is Mrs. C. B. Rich and her putter which prompted her to become tournament history. In the morning round Mrs. Rich dropped a 40-putt on the eleventh hole to defeat Mrs. George Theiss, Appleton, and go into the semi-finals against Mrs. E. Foulk, Oshkosh. In the afternoon match the putter was almost missing until the twelfth hole when, with Mrs. Rich trailing by four holes, it came to life, evened the match for her and won it on the seventeenth with a birdie two. Teachers Exonerated Of Brutality Charges

Kimberly 3, Kaukauna 2 (10 innings).
Green Bay 6, Two Rivers 5.

KIMBERLY—The race for the first round championship in the Northern State league became a merry free-for-all last night when Kimberly knocked off Kaukauna, 3 to 2, in ten innings of mighty interesting baseball, and Green Bay bumped Two Rivers, 6 to 5, at the Bay.

Two Rivers retained the league lead despite the defeat but the standings show the Rivers with one extra game to play and with four teams having only four defeats and therefore all the chance in the world to be at the top July 11 when the first round closes.

For the first several innings last night, a large crowd saw some nip and tuck baseball. Kimberly was leading and apparently had the game in the bag. But along about the seventh things began to happen and it took double plays and thrilling catches to keep the situation down where it belonged. Then, in the ninth, the Kaws staged an uprising that enabled them to tie the score and before it was all over the fans were all but hanging on their seats limp from the excitement.

If the Kaws should say that they got all kinds of breaks last night—all but—it wouldn't be hard to believe them. They were victims of sensational plays and stops, they had a couple costly errors and once they were stopped by a decision at first base which saw the whole squad rush from the dugout in protest.

Score in First
Kimberly scored in the first frame after two were out. Horn drilled a single over second base and with the count two and three on Bowman, Horn started with the pitch. Bowman connected squarely and rified the ball into deep center and before it could be returned to the infield Horn was across the plate and Bowman was reposing on second where he died when U. Wildenberg whiffed.

Kaukauna evened the count in the fourth. Kelly singled into left and tallied on successive singles by Powell and Eggert.

The Papermakers took the lead again in their half the fourth when U. Wildenberg singled to center and went to second on an infield out and scored on Hein's single.

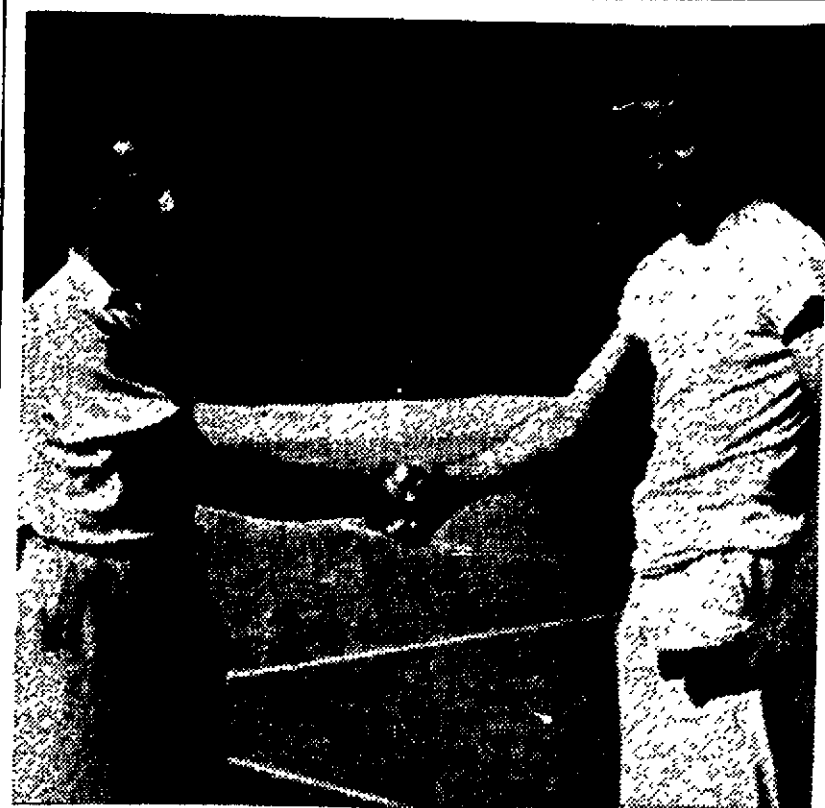

The folks were gathering at the gates when the Kaws came to bat in the first of the ninth with Kimberly apparently destined to win, 2 to 1. But Powell drew a walk and then Rader drove one down second base way which went between Hein's legs and Powell went all the way to third. The Kaws tried desperately to "squeeze" him across the plate but Eggert couldn't get a ball for a bunt and finally fanned. With Zelinski up, LaDuke uncorked a wild pitch and Powell scored to tie the count at 2-all. Zelinski then hit into a double play while trying to squeeze in the winning run.

Things didn't look so badly for the Papermakers as U. Wildenberg punched a single into left to open the last of the ninth. Schroeder laid down a bunt advancing Wildenberg which brought them up. With Butch's friends hoping for a long hit to wipe out that error, he rolled to second and Wildenberg went to third. J. Wildenberg then lefted to right to end the inning.

Kaws Stage Charge
Kappell rolled to short and was tossed out at first on a decision that brought the whole Kaukauna squad charging across the field at Umpire Hooyman as the tenth frame opened. The throw from short had been high and Bowman appeared to be stretching for the ball when Kappell crashed it. As the Kaws failed to win their argument, however, and went back to sit down. They felt much worse, a moment later when Peck smacked a double to center. Carvenaugh then rolled one down third base way where Tuffy Horn played the ball slowly to keep Peck at second and then rified it across the diamond to get Carvenaugh at first. It was a nice play. Vile rolled to Bowman to end the threat.

In the Kimberly half the tenth, Cashman dropped a single just over the second baseman's head into right. Zinth laid down a bunt moving Cashman to second and he went to third on LaDuke's infield. With Horn at the plate, Carvenaugh tossed a ball into the dirt and Peck failed to trap it. It rolled away Cashman lit out for

Don Leavens Upsets Jack Hall in Valley Tennis Play

FEATURE NET PLAY

Competition in the Fox River Valley tennis tournament at Doty club courts, Neenah, yesterday became tougher and one of the first victims was Jack Hall, right, who bowed to Don Leavens, Milwaukee. The win enabled Leavens to advance to the quarter finals. The scores were 7-5, 4-6 and 6-2.

In the upper picture Elwood Cooke, left, is being congratulated by Joe Bleckinger, Oshkosh, after their match which saw Cooke win easily, 6-1 and 6-2. The Portland, Oregon, netter had too much experience and ability for his Oshkosh opponent.

Brewers Bumped
By IndianapolisWinners Pound Blaeholder
And Kimball for 17 Safeties

Chicago—(AP)—With their pitching improving and their slugging pair, John Rizzo and Enos Slaughter, functioning, the Columbus Red Birds apparently are warming up to cause trouble in the American association.

Rizzo and Slaughter have been slamming the ball at a great clip all season, but until recently the Columbus pitching was nothing to startle anyone. A couple of samples of top-flight hurling in the last two days, however, have moved Burt Shotton's gang into the third spot, three games behind Toledo and Minneapolis which were again tied for the leadership today.

Morton Cooper smothered St. Paul with a two-hit pitching performance Tuesday night, and last night Johnny Chambers came up with another, holding the Saints to six hits to win a 2 to 0 decision.

Minneapolis pulled up even with Toledo by smothering out six runs in the tenth inning for a 12 to 7 decision, after the Mud Hens had tied the score with three runs in the ninth.

Indianapolis broke its fourth-place tie with Milwaukee by hammering out a 9 to 2 decision. The Indians clipped George Blaeholder and another Kimball for 17 hits, while southpaw Lloyd Johnson held the Brewers to six.

Louisville came from behind to conquer Kansas City, 11 to 6.

The University of Kansas senate has approved a 4-year curriculum for prospective athletic coaches and physical education directors, either men or women. Dr. Forrest C. Allen, retiring director of athletics, will supervise the department.

Athletes

MILWAUKEE—(AP)—More than 200 of the nation's outstanding athletes took final workouts today for the national A. U. track and field championships at Marquette university stadium tomorrow and Saturday.

Throughout the day champions and unknowns tuned up for their specialties, while amateur photographers and autograph seekers had a field day. Better known athletes performed yesterday before a battery of seven motion picture cameras.

The star-studded field of more than 300 athletes entered for the junior and senior meets from 65 colleges, universities and athletic clubs is expected, under favorable conditions, to hang up a number of new records. Marquette's track is regarded as fast as any in the nation.

That 24 of the athletes have equalled or bettered 33 accepted world marks is an indication of the meet's class. Thirty-seven members of last year's United States Olympic team have registered, as have 16 of the defending A. U. champions. Seven of the winners at the Princeton invitational meet and 10 of 14 national collegiate champions will compete.

New Record Likely
Charles F. Hunter, veteran coach of the San Francisco Olympic club, said a new world's record in the 800 meter run was "probable and possible." The present mark of 1:48.8 is held by blazing Ben Eastman.

"Something is bound to happen," Hunter said, "when you put together in the same race, Johnny Woodruff of Pittsburgh, the Olympic champion; Glenn Cunningham of the New York Curb exchange; Charles Beetham of Ohio State; Elroy Robinson of the San Francisco Olympic club; Vic Palmason of Washington; and Ross Bush of Southern California's Sportsmen's association."

Junior trials will be held tomorrow afternoon and the finals tomorrow night. The senior championships will be run off Saturday afternoon.

British Heavy May
Battle Joe Louis

London—(AP)—Ted Broadbribb, manager for the British heavy-weight, Tommy Farr, announced today he was starting negotiations with Nat Fletcher of New York, for a world heavyweight title fight in the United States between Farr and Joe Louis.

Should the negotiations go through, Broadbribb declared, Farr's fight provisionally scheduled for Aug. 9 with Max Schmeling would be cancelled.

Broadbribb said his sudden move for a match with Louis came from his annoyance at the decision of the British boxing board of control to recognize the Farr-Schmeling fight as for the world title.

"I do not agree with the board of control ruling," Broadbribb said. "We consider Louis the world champion and would rather meet him than Schmeling for the title."

Lefty Gomez in
One-Hit Victory
Over AthleticsCharley Root Rescues Cubs
And Hangs Up Win
Over Cardinals

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

THIS being the open season on advance sharpshooting at the all-star game proceedings, Mr. Lefty (El Goofy) Gomez appears today as an American league lifesaver for the forthcoming festivities at Washington.

Overshadowing such other fireworks as the Cubs' second straight win over the Cardinals, the Giant's continued display of power-hitting to stay in the National league race, and a somewhat startling shutout streak of 30 consecutive innings by Boston Bees' pitchers, Mr. Gomez pitched himself a ball game yesterday.

He handcuffed the Athletics with one long hit for a 6-1 victory, thereby posting his best performance in two years, and one of the top jobs in a somewhat lengthy career of southpaw speedballing. For eight innings, not a Philadelphia can even close to a nodding acquaintance with first base. Down they went, one-two-three, with the regularity of a parade from dugout to home plate and back again, dragging their bats behind them. Only in the fifth, when Bob Johnson exploded his tenth homer, did Lefty momentarily loosen up.

Need Good Hurling
With Dizzy Dean, Carl Hubbell and Van Lingle Mungo primed to start the National league in the all-star classic next week, the Gomez magic gladdened the hearts of the American's supporters, and particularly Marse Joe McCarthy, who is master-minding the junior circuit warriors. For, otherwise, the American leaguers could hardly hope to get such pitching as the Nationals can expect.

In sharp contrast to his tight flinging, was the pounding party put on at St. Louis for the second game of the Cubs-Cardinals series. Chicago had to win. Otherwise, the Giants would have climbed to the top of the National league.

Given the task, the Cubs turned the trick neatly, 9-4, to stay a half game out in front, but only by banging out 20 hits and watching a troop of seven pitchers march in to the mound and, generally, have their ears pinned back. Only old Charley Root, who tossed hitless ball in a 2-3-inning relief trick to receive credit for his second victory in as many days, managed to escape the hurling slaughter.

Giants Walltop Phils
Meantime, the Giants were sticking right on the heels of the Cubs by walltopping the Phillies 7-2, behind Clyde Castleman's four-hit hurling and by virtue of the continued "clicking" of their new larripping power.

Probably the most remarkable achievement of the day, however, was the doubleheader shutout the Bees panned on the Dodgers, winning 1-0 behind Gabby Gabler's four-hit pitching, and 7-0 on the strength of a five-hitter by the veteran Guy Bush. Piled on the 12-inning 1-0 decision of Tuesday, the double blanking made it 30 straight frames of whitewashing the Bees applied to the Dodgers.

Wes Ferrell pitched and hit the Senators to a 6-4 win over his old pals, the Boston Red Sox. The Detroit Tigers regained third place by topping the White Sox 4-1 behind Tommy Bridges four-hit effort. Hal Trosky clouted two homers as the Indians slaughtered the Browns 10-3.

The Pirates called on Cy Blanton in their night game with the Cincinnati Reds and Cy responded with a seven-hit shutout for a 6-0 victory.

The Fourth warders, while B. Werner and R. Green worked for the losers, C. Williams and O. Kirk were the bat stars for the victors. Williams clouted three hits in four trips, while Kirk homered with two men on base in the third inning. The Fourth ward squad is looking for games and teams interested have been asked to telephone the manager at 2576.

Tunney Says Schmeling
Will Again Beat LouisBY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK—(AP)—Interviewed in Montreal, Gene Tunney said if Joe Louis and Max Schmeling fight again there will be a new world's heavyweight champion. . . . Bucky Harris is "regarded" because his Johnny Stone wasn't picked for the A. L. all-star team. . . . It cost the University of California $6,000 to send two crews to the Poughkeepsie regatta. . . . Old Jake Kilrain, who once fought 75 rounds with John L. Sullivan is ill and penniless in a Boston hospital.

Looks like those Newark Bears have "done got de coon and gone" in the International league. Those who saw John Henry Lewis against Walter Reddish, Philadelphia heavyweight at Washington the other night, say Jawn Henry had better stick to the light heavies and ask no questions. . . . Young Alfred G. Vanderbilt is spending more than $60,000 to improve the Pimlico race track.

General Manager Warren C. Giles sure was glad to read Charlie Dressen's statement that the Reds are just beginning to click. . . . Mr. Giles has been a wonder. . . . After getting an eye full of Fred Apostoli, Lloyd Gregory opines in the Portland Oregonian that Freddie Steele is plenty smart in giving Apostoli a wide berth. . . . Del Baker, filling in for Mickey Cochrane as manager of the Tigers, has turned down more than one offer to manage big league clubs. . . . Like Art Fletcher of the Yanks, Baker prefers the role of coach.

Dr. Ray Walker of Los Angeles explains the phenomenon of the traditional seventh inning rally thusly: "By the seventh inning there has been sufficient accumulation of waste products in a pitcher so that control is lost." . . . Jack Dempsey is building an open air gymnasium atop his restaurant here. . . . Jerry (the Greek) Ludivas, who used to train Dempsey, will be in charge. . . . Carl Mays, the old submarine pitcher, bobs up as head man of a baseball school out in Portland, Ore. . . . Watch that Duke football team next season, boys.

Both teams went hitless through the first seven innings. Kobals holding a short lead by putting over two runs in the first half of the eighth.

With two out, Deprez, left fielder, clipped out a single to score Mitchell and Krueger to give Jake's the win. The first score had been made after P. Murphy got a hit and came home on a wild throw to third base. Kobals counted when Reider and Elias beat out hits to the infield, advanced on walks and completed the circuit on a long fly and a play on first base.

Mitchell, Jake's pitcher, gave up three hits while Wankey, on the mound for Kobals, allowed eight.

Princeton Gopher Is Favored to Turney
Oakmont, Pa. —(AP)—Jim Marks, long-driving Princeton golfer, strode into the quarter-finals of the national inter-collegiate today and polished the prospect of a "home town" victory such as Sam Parks, Jr., scored in the open in 1933.

The 21-year-old blond Princeton star learned the vagaries of Oakmont's many hazards while a member of the club. His father, J. W. Marks, Sr., is coach at Kiski Prep in nearby Saltsburg.

The younger Marks, who won a driving contest Tuesday with an average of 312 yards, used his long tee shots and knowledge of the course yesterday to breeze along two under par for ten of the 16 holes it took to dispose of Dan Donovan of Notre Dame in the second round.

He was called upon to meet another darkhorse contender in the 36-hole round today — Bill Barrow of Michigan, who eliminated Willie Turnesa one up in the biggest upset of the tournament.

New London Team Defeats Appleton Legion Juniors

Local Team Rallies in Final Inning to Win, 8 to 7

New London—It was only a practice game but the New London American Legion Junior baseball team of the Norris-Spencer post tasted its first victory against the Appleton Legion team here yesterday afternoon, winning with an exciting last-minute run 8 to 7.

The team was swamped in previous games by Appleton and Oshkosh. Both cities are out of the regular playing class with New London.

Douglas Zernicke proved himself a pitcher when he pulled the New London squad from a 6 to 1 slump in the third inning and with the help of his teammates held the visiting aggregation to only one run in six innings and did some fine 2-hit batting himself. It was his first showing on the mound in regular play.

Keith Pahl put the Norris-Spencer boys in a bad spot in the third inning when he walked three men, allowed two hits and pulled an error himself to send five Appleton boys around the circuit. Zernicke took charge in the middle of things and retired the side with a strike-out and a couple of pop flies, catching one himself. After that inning the new pitcher fanned eight other batters and walked two, allowing six scattered hits.

Appleton changed pitchers in the fifth inning, Reider going in for Klitzke. The latter proved the easier mark for the New London lads and in the sixth inning they counted three hits and two runs to make the score 7 to 3. They took advantage of three walks and three hits in the eighth inning to even the score at 7-all. They fell short in the second and third innings when they retired with the bases loaded.

Stern is Star
Bernie Stern was the star hitter of the day and brought in the winning run in the last half of the ninth with a clean single after Barlow had walked with two men already down and worked his way around to third base. Stern also brought in two runs in the sixth with a 3-bagger wallop and gathered two other singles, scoring once himself. Henry McDaniels played a fine all-around game at shortstop and counted three hits, one a double on which Stern scored.

Barry carried the batting load for Appleton with three hits. In his four innings in the box, Klitzke breezed three batters, walked two and hit one. Reider fanned six and walked seven.

The regular circuit schedules have not been received from league headquarters yet but it is expected that the junior teams will get under scheduled play within a week. Following are yesterday's box scores:

English Golfers Can't Take It When the Pressure's Turned On

BY GAYLE TALBOT
SOUTHPORT, England—(AP)—England's professional golfers, though fine fellows personally and uniformly kind to their mothers, simply can't take it very well under pressure.

That's the painful and reluctant conclusion drawn after watching them—with a couple of notable exceptions—fizzle out like damp firecrackers in the concluding stages of the Ryder cup matches yesterday.

The margin of eight points to four by which the Americans won their first cup match on British soil doesn't necessarily reflect the difference in the brands of golf shot by the two countries. In practice, against themselves and in playing, England's stars have proved they can knock the spots off their golf courses.

Even in the Ryder cup matches, the Britishers individually and collectively showed they had every shot in the Americans' bags. But late yesterday, when the going got really tough and for a time looked like any one of a half dozen matches might be decided, they folded their tents.

The Americans, their spines stiffened by a hostile gallery which roundly applauded missed American putts, played their greatest golf in the crucial stages.

Ed Dudley, whose finishing qualities had been questioned at home, brought out some of the most brilliant golf of his career in the final decisive nine holes. His opponent, Alfred Pehr, like every other member of the British team except Henry Cotton, David Rees, and Sam King, couldn't stand the pressure.

Gene Sarazen, three down with only 12 holes to play, came home a winner against Percy Alliss. Gene, burned up at the treatment accorded the Americans by the galloping crowd of at least 12,000 yesterday, doesn't intend to play in England again after next week's open at Carnoustie.

Medina Pounds Out Victory Over Neenah
Medina—Scoring three runs in the first, three more in the third, another three in the seventh and six in the eighth, the Medina softball team walloped Neenah Merchants Tuesday night, 15 to 1. Friday night Medina will play the Island Drugs of Neenah on the Medina field.

Cramer tossed for Medina Tuesday night and allowed four hits, fanned twelve and walked six. Jackson opposed him and allowed 12 hits, fanned 8 and walked 5. G. Huebner was the bat star for the Medina club with four hits in five trips. He got a homer, two doubles and a single.

HOW NOT TO ENJOY THE FOURTH

—WITH SOME SUGGESTIONS FOR THOSE WHO PREFER PLEASANT MOTORING

Some prefer to start out with a tank full of long-mileage Standard Red Crown—then pull in at a Standard Service sign before the gauge reads "Empty."

Of course, that won't happen if you've had the Standard Oil Dealer check your crankcase with long-lasting Iso-Vis "D" motor oil beforehand.

That's not easy to do, what with Standard Oil Dealers every highway and every way to keep your radiator full of fresh, cool water.

A dead battery is very un-enjoyable, but hard to get you to let the Standard Oil Dealer have his way about battery checking and filling.

Of course, a set of new Atlas tires—low cost, top quality—prevents that. And even old tires are safer if properly inflated by your Standard Oil Dealer.

Very inconvenient if you happen to be going any place in particular. Accurate road maps (free) and road information are what you must expect if you stop at a Standard Oil Dealer's station.

So gasoline you can buy gives more miles per gallon than Standard Red Crown... Thousands say "It beats them all."

SERIOUSLY SPEAKING

Standard Oil Dealers are in a position to give you service and supplies that will make your Fourth of July motor trip more enjoyable and less costly. Such things as clean windshield and windows, air for tires, and water for radiators are free, of course. And in addition to good gasoline and motor oil, they can furnish expert chassis lubrication, spark-plug and headlight bulb replacement, tires and batteries. A few minutes under the STANDARD SERVICE sign before you start your trip will be time well spent.

MORE THAN 23,000 STANDARD OIL DEALERS ARE AT YOUR SERVICE.

Irwin Gives Himself up For Cash Consideration

BY JOE WILLIAMS

New York—The first version was that Robert Irwin, the pathetic, misunderstood art genius of the village who mischievously massacred three persons as an outlet for his soul distress, walked into the city room of a Hearst newspaper in Chicago and said, "Here I am."

It now develops this isn't precisely the way it happened. Fleeing from Cleveland where his identity had been accidentally established by a kitchen maid in whom he had indicated a lovely romantic interest, and fearing arrest momentarily, the poor, unfortunate wretch contacted the newspaper by phone and negotiated his surrender for a cash bonus said to be $5,000.

So what first appeared to be an amazing bit of good fortune for the city room, entirely unsolicited and owing its presence to the pitiful lad's high appreciation for the Hearstian policies with special respect to the treatment of attractive murder episodes, becomes on closer scrutiny somewhat tawdry because of its sordid commercial aspects.

It wasn't altogether a case of true love. True enough there was admiration and possibly a touch of affection but in the end the feeble genius refused to go upstairs to the city room until the money had been placed on the line. He had something to sell and he demanded his price. It is not unreasonable to assume he could have gone elsewhere and made a similar deal for his demure confessions.

"Here I Am. How Much Will You Pay?"

Just the same it was a spectacular scoop for the newspaper and considering one thing and another, was cheap at whatever the price. What concerns me most in connection with the affair is the judgement in making public the details of the exclusive. When page one shockers call up by phone and say, "Here I am. How much will you pay?" The profession must lose much of its Richard Harding Davis glamour.

This procedure certainly is not in keeping with the generally accepted traditions of the business. You don't get scoops that way. You fight your way through no man's land, through angry picket lines, you vault the walls of Buckingham palace, hang by your nose tip on the window ledge of J. P. Morgan's private office, join up as a deck hand on the president's yacht. You . . .

Well, if you believe all you read in the fiction magazines and see on silver screens that's what you do. And I suppose a certain amount of enterprise, imagination and perseverance go into the making of a scoop, though I wouldn't know personally, being happily deficient in all these qualities, if that's what you call them.

Even a bad newspaperman can't miss getting a fairly worthwhile story all by himself if he manages to hang on to his job long enough and one of these days I hope to come up with something really sensational, say, like Tommy Manville being this way about what chorine at what dump, as exclusively predicted in this space.

Grange Story Falls Into Williams' Lap

Some 10 or 12 years ago Red Grange was a ball of fire in the midwest and it was an 8-column streamer if he even had a hang nail. He was getting ready to close out his career as a Big 10 footballer and there was much furious speculation as to what he was going to do when he was through. There were rumors he was going to Hollywood, he was going to marry a Chicago wheat heiress, he was going to play salaried football.

I was doing sports for the Cleveland Press at the time and Earle Martin was the editor. Mr. Martin was the kind of editor who called you over to his desk and said, "There's a story in this fellow. Get it." Within 24 hours I had the Grange story. Mr. Martin probably still thinks I am a pretty good reporter. But I did nothing to get the story. It fell in my lap.

Gene Tunney was in town to fight Johnny Risko. Along with him were Bill Gibson and Tim Mara. Gibson was his manager and Mara thought he had a piece of the manly Marino, but was later disillusioned by the courts. Some months later Boo Boo Hoff, an aristocratic Philadelphia racketeer, also thought he had a piece of Mr. Tunney but this one didn't stand up either. It was easy to get pieces of Mr. Tunney but hard to collect on them. His clever-out that Grange had already decided to forego the distinction of a college degree and cash in immediately on his lyrical press clippings.

The incident is mentioned here not as something notable even in sports' reporting but as an indication of how scoops are made. More often than not they walk right up and bite you in the leg. This may come as a brutal shock to the contemporary graduates of the various schools of journalism but any old time news man will tell them it's delightfully true.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: Our wild, stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff home of Michael's aunts, opens with the mysterious shooting to death of attractive Jude Blinshop. A series of strange attacks is apparently explained when we find below the bluff the body of Michael's mad father. Then Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder by an unseen hand, and the Skipper, Mike's tall and tweedy younger aunt, disappears. Mike stays with Gay Palmer, his fiancée, while William, the chauffeur, and I futilely search the grounds. Returning, we find Aunt Martha nearly dead after taking sleeping powders.

"She's dead," he said in a still voice. Sweat was running down my face into my eyes. My throat was hard and dry. "She can't be! She—" William's hand coming down heavily on my back froze the words in my mouth. He pushed me to one side.

Frankie Resuscitation I'm not quite clear on what followed. William had taken charge. We were all moving mechanically, obeying his orders. As I remember it, I was holding the old lady's uninjured arm up over her head, flaying it back and forth from her side in a sort of windmill motion. What the others were doing I have no idea. Finally, beneath the wheezing noises of her rescuers, M. Farrington began to breathe—faintly, spasmodically at first, and then with more strength and steadiness. Mike and I stopped simultaneously, but William made us keep going.

Weariness was floating over me, but through it droned words, "The Skipper! The Skipper!" We must hurry. But where? Where? Just as M. Farrington's eye flew open. I had the answer.

"Stay here, Gay," I whispered and unconsciously yanked Michael into the hall.

"The cellar," I told him. For once Mike didn't wait to argue. He followed me down the hall to the servants' quarters as fast as he could go. I could feel his breath on my neck all the way. We sprinted through the narrow corridor and took the back stairs three at a time.

I was flummoxed at the door of the entry and the confounded thing wouldn't seem to work. Behind me there was a banging of drawers, the crash of a chair going over, an awful uproar.

The clatter on the back stairs was probably William, but I didn't turn to see. Frantically, I tried key after key on that cellar door. It was an axe before one of them turned, and the door flew open. Inky black, the cellar gaped below us.

"Where the devil are the lights?" I asked.

Mike's hand found a switch and the cellar stairs, narrow, crooked and dusty, lay ahead of us. Farrington Bluff was built in the days when cellars were designed for foundations of a house in which food and drink might be incidentally stored. We went down those stairs at top speed. As my feet left the bottom step, I heard the door above closing loudly.

"Where's William?" I snapped at Michael.

"Went back upstairs. The women are having a fit about being left alone."

On the spot, I dismissed William from my mind. By the light of the dim bulb over the stairs, we could see a good part of the vast old cellar. We were standing at the end of a long passageway, flanked on the left by the wall of the house.

Public Schools Being Cleaned And Repaired

Improvement Will Put Buildings in Shape For Next Term

Kaukauna—Kaukauna's schools are getting a facelift as janitors are resurfacing floors and carpenters making repairs in the buildings.

Three new dressing rooms were built under the stage of the Civic auditorium. Park and Nicolet schools are being sanded and refinished. All wooden floors in the high schools are getting a new surfacing of prepared wax.

Park and Nicolet schools each received new book shelves for their library as the shelving from the east and west assembly halls of the high school was taken out and transferred to the graded schools. A part of the assembly hall shelving has been placed in the paper store room adjoining the superintendent's office.

Sand Floors—All class rooms were finished in Nicolet school early this week and work has started on the corridors. When the Nicolet job is finished the workmen will transfer to Park school to do a similar job.

Two carpenters have been employed on the shelving work and on building music and instrument cabinets to be installed in the band room.

Two masons were employed for one day in the basement of the high school replacing a brick partition in the ventilator room. The old wall had been cracked and unsafe.

New Rooms—Dressing rooms in the auditorium basement were cut out of the large expanse of space under the stage. Partitions are wood, surfaced on two sides. The rooms are large, two of them being about 35 by 15 feet. A new concrete floor had to be built for them. Wiring and painting in the rooms is yet to be done.

William Hass, chairman of the school board committee on building and grounds, is in charge of making the improvements.

Deferred Taxes are

Due, Treasurer Warns

Kaukauna—Today is the last time payments may be on the 40 per cent balance due on taxes by persons who received extensions of time for tax payment in March. Mrs. Mary Hooyman, city treasurer said this morning.

Most of the collections due were made by yesterday, the city treasurer reported. About $9,000 of taxes, payable by 200 persons, were being paid off under this system, which permits persons to make a 60 per cent payment in March and the remainder before July 1. Taxes not paid before the deadline will not go on the delinquent list until the spring of 1938, according to the state law that governs this extension system.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Kaukauna—Gene Ditter returned to Kaukauna Tuesday after a 4-day holiday in Milwaukee.

Mrs. Ollie Toms and Leola Toms left this afternoon for Manchester, Tenn. where they are going to attend the golden wedding celebration of Mrs. Toms' parents. They plan to stay about two weeks.

Mrs. William Van Lieshout, Mrs. R. J. Van Ellis, Mrs. Luke Van Lieshout, and Miss Germaine Van Lieshout were in Milwaukee Tuesday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hauser.

Pirates Defeat Sox

In Junior League Game

Kaukauna—Pirates and Sox in the boys' junior softball league lightened up their defenses and showed that all their scores need not always be in the high twenties and thirties. The Pirates beat the Sox 15-10 yesterday in a game at the library grounds.

In the senior league Harold Walsh's team went on a scoring spree to defeat Bob Versteegen's outfit 20-9.

$3,200 Expected By City in License Fees on July 1

Kaukauna—As July 1 rolls around the city coffers swell about $3,200 as license fees due the city at the beginning of the fiscal year are due.

Greatest source of income is the group of 28 tavern licenses, which at $100 each, enrich the city $2,800. Next are the cigarette licenses, 60 of them, at $5 each, which put another $300 in the city's bank book. Two class A wholesale beverage licenses at $35 a piece add $70 to the treasury. Two pharmacy licenses add $10 more for a total of $310.

There is another source of revenue in the milk dealers' licenses, 13 of them at $3 each, but these are paid on Jan. 1.

Scouts Entertain Rotary Members At Outdoor Meet

Present Demonstrations of Various Scouting Skills

Kaukauna—Boy scouts of Troop 20 entertained the Rotary club with demonstrations of five different scouting skills at an outdoor luncheon meeting of the Rotary, held at Riverside park Wednesday noon.

Demonstrations of fire by friction, knot tying, quick fire starting, signaling and first aid made up the program, which was prepared under the direction of Wallace Mooney, scout master.

The quick fire starting had the Rotarians cheering for the boys in their competition with one another and with the wind in an effort to burn strings set at fixed heights over the flames they started. James McLaughlin and Ralph Mooney were the first to have their fire burn the two strings.

Signaling kept the club men guessing, and when they suspected that the boys might know what each other was sending, the men gathered in two camps, each one whispering messages with which they hoped their champion could baffle the scout at the other end, receiving the signals. Karl Miller and Richard Hoehne could not stump one another, however.

Knot tying was demonstrated by James McLaughlin, Eugene Lange, Ralph Mooney, Eugene Lange, James McLaughlin, and Richard Hoehne. Russell Toms and Donald Esler gave a demonstration of first aid practices. Hoehne gave the only demonstration of fire by friction.

Engineer Makes Survey

Of City Storm Sewers

Kaukauna—Frank M. Charlesworth, city engineer is making a survey of the storm sewers of Kaukauna in an effort to find some practicable way of directing storm sewer flowage away from the disposal plant pipe system, especially during heavy rains.

At present all storm sewers run into the sanitary system and direct to the disposal plant, where the flow may be by-passed into the river in case the flow is too heavy for the plant to handle.

Thirty Oshkosh Lions, led by County Clerk Arthur Hedke, will be at the greens, either to take part in the game or to swell the rooting section.

A. Cook Heir Deeds Armory to Company I, Neenah

Legal Action Gives Soldiers Permanent Claim to Building

Neenah—Through the completion of a new grant by Mrs. Maud Cook, nee Lancaster, of Manchester, Vermont, the S. A. Cook Armory will continue to be the home of the Twin City Wisconsin National Guard units, the Grand Army of the Republic and affiliated women's organizations as long as the building stands, was announced today by Major M. O. Hardt, president of the armory board.

Mrs. Lancaster, formerly of this city, and the only surviving heir of the late Honorable S. A. Cook, owner of the property, extended the grant to Company I, 127th Infantry and its successors.

The action culminates a program started between Mrs. Lancaster and the S. A. Cook Armory board more than three years ago. "Final papers were the question and delivered by Mrs. Lancaster to the board this week. Coincidentally, Company I is granted permanent ownership almost on the 30th anniversary of Cook's original donation."

Grants Deed
Early in the summer of 1907, Cook realized his desire to see a combined headquarters for the G. A. R. and the Twin City Wisconsin National Guard and granted a true deed to the building. But the World War took Company I to the battlefields and while the unit was in action, Cook died.

A provision in the trust-deed stated that if Company I was disbanded, the building would revert to the Cook estate. Because military forces were reorganized after the war, the question arose whether the present company had a legal ownership of the armory. Mrs. Lancaster, however, knew her father's wishes and has made it possible for the building to become the permanent headquarters of the military organizations.

Terms of Deed
The terms of the new deed clearly state that ownership of the armory over to Company I, "its successors," regardless of what the succeeding units may be named. There is no clause of revision contained in the document and the only legal provision is that the building always be known as the S. A. Cook armory.

Now that the ownership of the building has been definitely established, the board is considering plans to improve the structure and increase its accommodations. Details of the program have not been settled, but the building of new supply rooms for the two Wisconsin National Guard units is likely. Major Hardt indicated today. Carl Bernhardt is secretary-treasurer of the board.

Also included among the permissible fireworks are colored sparklers, not over 10 inches in length and three-eighths of an inch in diameter, colored fire, torches, fountains, and flower pots.

A total of 434 persons were reinterviewed during the period and 230 called at the office to renew their applications for employment. Seventeen field visits were made by representatives of the local office in June.

The manager of the women's section reports that a number of young girls are now available for domestic work. Anyone requiring a girl for domestic work is urged to contact the office. The telephone is 846.

Men who are experienced and willing to accept farm work at current wages are also urged to contact the office promptly. Plenty of local residents who are now unemployed are registered at the employment office and are seeking either permanent or temporary work. Employers who wish to hire men or women are urged to consult Mr. Gates.

Shows How Oil Man Saved on His Taxes

Washington—(AP)—A treasury attorney told the congressional tax committee today that Louis Blauvelt, a Baltimore, Md., oil man, had effected tax savings of at least $400,000 since 1934 by creation of 64 trusts for his wife and children.

Paul W. Bruton, an internal revenue bureau attorney, said Blauvelt, founder of the Lord Baltimore Filling Stations, Inc., and a pioneer in the field of "high test" gasoline, created the trusts shortly before he sold his interest in the standard Oil company of Indiana in 1934 at a profit of $3,697,243.

This testimony came shortly after Bruton told the tax investigators that Robert A. and Frank D. Stranahan, president and vice president respectively of the Champion Spark Plug company, Toledo, O., George W. Olmstead of Ludlow, Pa., and Mrs. Greenville Clark, wife of a New York attorney, had cut their federal taxes substantially through creation of various types of trust funds.

Bruton also testified Martin F. Tietman, who apparently lives at Essex Falls, N. J., and Charles F. Wallace, of Westfield, N. J., had accomplished "a total reduction in their income taxes of $611,328" in 1935 and 1936 by the use of multiple trusts for the benefit of minor children.

Industrial Safety Efforts Saves Lives

Fond du Lac—(AP)—W. H. Cameron, Chicago, managing director of the National Safety council, told delegates attending the Wisconsin Council of Safety convention yesterday industrial safety efforts in the United States during the last 20 years saved 270,000 lives.

Declaring 98 per cent of industrial accidents are preventable, Cameron stressed the need for "more competent safety directors" and urged industrial personnel be trained "in safe habits" of work.

William C. Knoelke of Milwaukee, chairman of the national street and highway traffic section of the National Safety council, said highway accidents would be reduced when motorists become "inspired to want to assume the responsibility of driving safely at all times, without the fear or threat of impending enforcement."

Improvements are Made at Menasha Marathon Mills

Work Expected to be Finished Late in August

Menasha—A new building for the wax division and another in which wax tanks will be stored are being constructed at the Marathon Paper mills. Work started early in April and is expected to be finished late in August.

A crew of men employed by the contractors, James Leck company, Minneapolis, is erecting the wax division building, measuring 255 by 61 feet and containing a basement and two floors, and the smaller structure which will house 16 tanks.

The expansion program also calls for a bridge over River street which will connect the wax and carton divisions of the plant, simplifying the transportation of products and materials between the two units. Products and materials will be moved from one building to the other by electrically driven trucks through the bridge, eliminating much of the traffic congestion on the street below. Work on the bridge, which will be about 13 feet in width, 10 feet high, and have a 10-foot clearance from the street, will start within a month.

Move Warehouse
In order to make room for the new building and achieve straight line production, the warehouse, standing beside the main wax division structure, had to be moved 61 feet west.

The wax tanks also were moved from the storage unit to the new tank building on the northwest corner of the property and stood on end to conserve space. Tank cars will reach this building directly, rather than being routed to the storage structure as has been done in the past.

The large wax division building is of flat slab construction on the first and second floor with beam construction on the roof. The basement will be given over to storage. Printing and wax conversion departments will be located on the first floor and the finishing department on the second.

Buy Property
Property on the north side of River street and west of the plant acquired from the H. H. Plummer company is the site for the expansion project.

In an attempt to divert a portion of the loading operations from River street and relieve the pressure of truck traffic, a new platform for this purpose has been built on the west side of the warehouse. The number of freight cars which can be spotted at the mill has also been increased by the addition of new tracks.

URGES STRIKERS ON

Expect 2,000 for Youth Meetings

Plan to Make 'Democracy A Living Thing For Young'

Milwaukee—(AP)—Two thousand young men and women were expected today for the American Youth congress sessions here Friday through Monday—a project which National Chairman William W. Hinckley said was "an effort to make democracy a living, breathing thing for this generation of youth."

The congress will divide itself into a "senate" and "house of representatives" and into six committees—agriculture, democratic liberties, education, labor, peace, recreation and leisure time—which will consider bills to be presented by both organizations represented by delegates.

As stated in a call signed by 73 youth leaders, 11 United States senators and 32 congressmen, the purpose of the congress is "to give the nation's youth an opportunity to consider its mutual problems, seek its own solutions, and strengthen cooperative efforts among organizations serving youth."

Representatives of national youth organizations or of agencies serving youth, each of which is entitled to four "senators," will compose the "senate," while the "house" will consist of delegates from local youth groups with one "representative" for each group of 50 members or fraction thereof.

A mass meeting Friday night will open the congress, with delegates expected from the 48 states as well as Mexico, Cuba, Canada, France, England, Puerto Rico, Brazil and China.

Indian Braves from the Hayward reservation are to attend and four Indian princesses from the Winnebago tribe will sing at the opening meeting.

$5,780 Award in Damage Action

Stevens Point Jury Brings In Verdict in Auto Collision Case

Stevens Point—(AP)—A verdict finding for six plaintiffs and against the defendants, the Borden company and Lucian Braul, London, in amounts totalling $5,780.97, was returned by a jury in circuit court here late Wednesday following trial of an automobile damage suit.

Four plaintiffs, Clifford Grover, Grace Steppock, Marion Erickson and Alfred Lesavage, all of Junction City, asked damages totalling $15,550 for injuries suffered Oct. 8, 1936, when R. L. Grover's car, in which they were riding, was wrecked in a collision with a Borden milk truck driven by Braul. The owner of the car asked $150 which he claimed was the difference between the value of the car and the amount paid him by the United States Fire Insurance company.

The insurance company sued for $536.17, the amount paid the car owner. The jury found the defendants negligent in not having the truck lighted according to law, in driving on the wrong side of the highway and in not keeping a proper lookout.

Union Members Called For Injunction Hearing

St. Atkinson, Wis.—(AP)—Fifty-two members and officers of the United Automobile Workers of America local at the Creamery Package plant were directed in summonses today to appear in circuit court at Jefferson July 6 for hearings before Judge Jesse Earle.

The summonses were served in connection with a petition for a permanent injunction against picketing at the plant, where a strike has been in progress seven weeks.

The complaint filed by Grandson Gates, Creamery Package plant manager, stated the company suffered $50,000 damages because of the strike; that Gates had been threatened with violence by a picket; that pickets were armed with clubs, and that pickets illegally displayed signs proclaiming the company was "unfair to organized labor."

Teachers to Fight 'Unjust Dismissals'

Detroit—(AP)—The National Education association pointed its fight to protect members of the teaching profession from "unjust dismissals" toward the courts today.

Blanket approval of the committee on tenure's report citing several instances of teachers' "unjustifiable" discharges empowered the committee to investigate "in the federal courts" cases which involve "important tenure principles."

The report, presented to the N. E. A. legislative assembly by Donald Dushane of Columbus, Ind., committee chairman, also recommended that Jerome Davis be reinstated on the Yale University Divinity school faculty or be given a detailed account of reasons for his dismissal.

Action on a set of resolutions, one among them restating the association's opposition to "discriminatory oaths" required of teachers, and election of officers comprised concluding convention business today.

Other resolutions would ask coordination in a single division of all government agencies "intended to aid youth educationally" and oppose administrative merging of education with "functions generally classified as welfare services."

Postal receipts at Augusta, Ga., have shown a gain for 43 consecutive months.

Agreement Reached in Oconto County Strike

Oconto—(AP)—Settlement of the strike of Oconto county highway shop employees was reached late yesterday at Suring, Wis., in a meeting between the workers' committee and the county highway commission.

Workers received a wage increase but did not gain their demanded recognition of the A. F. of L. Truck Drivers' union as a sole bargaining agent.

The men return to work today under terms which will maintain until the county board meets July 15.

Neenah Man Builds Own Diving Apparatus for Salvage Work

Neenah—After several years of experimenting with various types of diving helmets, Edward Rightor, 210 High street, Neenah, has planned and built a diving helmet and air pump for salvage work in shallow water.

The helmet and pump was given a tryout at an Appleton swimming pool and proved so successful in operation that the owner intends to make a test in Lake Winnebago this weekend.

In principle and design, the helmet is similar to that used by Professor William Beebe in much of his undersea study of marine life. It was from a picture of Beebe's apparatus in a national magazine that Rightor first got his idea.

Gets Expert Help
William Cramer, an engineer at Kimberly-Clark paper mill, and Herman Waltheus of Neenah, proprietor of a sheet metal shop, assisted Rightor in building the diving outfit. Waltheus made most of the parts in his shop.

Sixteen gauge sheet metal, arc welded and riveted in all joints, was used in the construction of the helmet. The window of the helmet is standard automobile windshield glass and is set in the helmet frame with an asphalt compound. All ballast weights are of lead.

Where the bottom of the helmet rests on the shoulders of the diver, rubber hose tied with linen cord, was used as padding. Standard hose faucet connected to the side of the helmet near the bottom with standard pipe fitting serves as an air inlet. The faucet serves as a valve whereby the diver may cut off the air at will.

Use Standard Fittings
Cost of the air-pump was greatly reduced by the use of standard pipe fittings in its construction. It is of the opposed two-cylinder reciprocating type and will be hand operated. Lawn hose will be used for an air line.

Other equipment includes a canvas weight belt similar to airplane safety belts with built-in pockets containing lead weights. The lead when submerged, will weigh 25 pounds. This plus the 10-pound submerged weight of the helmet will give sufficient weight so that walking on the bottom of the lake will be possible.

Helmet Has Phone
Installed in the helmet is a 2-way telephone, purchased at a toy shop, for communication between diver and air man. A 50-foot manila safety line and a 50-foot descending line, weighted with a 15-pound weight, will be used for descending and ascending to and from the bottom.

The maximum depth that the pump can safely deliver air to the diver is 60 feet, corresponding to a pressure of 26 pounds to the square inch, the builder said. Rightor will also use a submersible flashlight.

The Borg family has an estate at Delavan, Wis.

George M. Borg Is Granted Divorce

In Elkhorn Court
Elkhorn, Wis.—(AP)—George Marshall Borg, 22, son of George W. Borg, wealthy Chicago manufacturer, was granted a divorce yesterday in Walworth county court by Judge Roscoe R. Luce on grounds of desertion.

Borg testified his wife, Juanita, 20, left him March 4, 1936, when he was working in Chicago. He said she telephoned him she was not coming back. Mrs. Borg, who was present in the courtroom with her attorneys, did not take the stand.

Mrs. Borg was granted custody of their child, George Marshall Borg, Jr., 2, except from June 15 to Sept. 15, and during the Christmas and New Year's holidays of each year when the child will be with his father. The court decreed the father shall have educational and spiritual direction of the boy and provide $50 a month for the support of his son while he is staying with the mother.

A property settlement was made out of court.

The young couple was married in Chicago, Jan. 24, 1934. Custody of the child was awarded Mrs. Borg in Chicago last March after the elder Borg, chairman of the Borg-Warner Corp., had brought an action to obtain legal control of his grandson.

Money Paid to Farmer Reaches Seven-Year High

Higher Prices, Larger Crops and Bigger Federal Payments are Factors

BY A. A. PATTON
New York.—A triple alliance—higher prices, larger crops and bigger government payments—stepped up the farmer's income in the first half of this year to the highest level since 1930.

Commodity men estimated more than $4,000,000,000 was paid for products of the 6,800,000 farms. That would top the previous half-year by 25 per cent and come close to the $4,200,000,000 collected at the previous high point.

Approximately half the annual farm income flows into the till during the first six months. This means citrus fruits, vegetables, meat and milk account for the bulk of the income, since the major crops—corn, wheat, cotton, tobacco—come along together.

Drought Helps Prices
Drought played an important role in this tremendous upswing. Lack of rainfall in 1934 and 1936 left world stocks of major crops at an unusually low ebb. Since steadily expanding industrial activity had fattened the pocketbooks of consumers, small stocks and poor harvests pointed prices skyward.

The situation was aggravated during the early months this year by the appearance of another dry spell in the midwestern "bread basket."

Corn, moving narrowly in the first quarter, rocketed 22 per cent to a 17-year top in late May. Analysts found the rise carried far beyond peaks attained by other cereals—which turned down in early April—and explained it was due mainly to scarcity of the feed for immediate delivery.

Cotton Up and Down
After several months of narrow swings, wheat slumped 18 per cent from its April high to the end of June.

With industrial use of cotton establishing new high records, fibre quotations began moving up early in the year. From 13 cents a pound, cotton pushed beyond the 15 cent mark in a few months.

An accumulation of cloth inventories in mill hands coincided with mounting estimates of the probable cotton harvest to send prices plunging 18 per cent by the close of the half year.

Livestock prices maintained a steadily rising trend. Even in recent months, when every other major commodity group weakened, The Associated Press weighted livestock index nudged ahead three per cent.

Despite the downturn in some agricultural prices during recent months, grains and cotton remain above levels prevailing at the first of the year. Livestock stands 14 per cent ahead.

Cash From Uncle Sam
Government payments have added considerably to the agriculturist's intake. The total reported by the department of agriculture for the first four months, the latest data available, was $282,000,000 against $53,000,000 in the same period of last year.

The following table gives some idea of the increase in wholesale quotations of farm staples during the past year, and compared with the depression low point:

	June 1	Year Ago	Dep. Low
Wheat—(bu.)	$ 1.27½	$.96½	$.45½
Cotton—(pd.)	.1322	.1179	.059
Corn—(bu.)	1.67½	.61½	.24½
Hogs—(cwt.)	11.75	10.20	5.50
Cattle—(cwt.)	15.00	8.75	6.30

'Harmless' Firecracker One That Usually Kills

Chicago.—"Harmless" firecrackers in the hands of little children are still the biggest hazard of the Fourth of July.

It was the "harmless" brand that caused 2,075 of 3,000 accidents studied in 1935 by the Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Nine of those killed were less than five years old; 146 injured were less than five. Altogether, at least 7,738 persons were injured and 30 killed from fireworks.

They're All Dangerous

The National Safety Council, discussing the survey, explains that most folks blame high-powered explosives for the accidents they read about. As a matter of fact, the council concludes, the common firecracker is the real villain.

Even sparklers, given to children because of their supposed safety, caused many injuries and at least two deaths.

The society cites these as typical accidents:

A policeman shattered his hand so badly that amputation was necessary. He was showing a child how to light a firecracker.

A fragment of tin pierced a boy's heart. He had lit a firecracker under a tin can.

One boy was killed and two passersby injured. The lad had dropped a lighted firecracker into an unused 1,000-gallon gasoline tank—which still contained some gas and vapor.

A war veteran who had been cured of shell shock lashed out and shattered his skull against a lamp post. He had been startled by a firecracker thrown at him.

Lighted firecrackers tossed into autos and crowds were found responsible for 1,359 of the 3,000 accidents studied.

How To Attack Problem
The National Safety Council suggests these preventive measures:

Legislation against the uncontrolled use of fireworks—legislation which will effectively throttle sale by the bootleg stands which spring up when sale is forbidden.

Municipally sponsored fireworks displays, handled by experts, to satisfy in a really safe-and-sane manner the public appetite for flashing boom-booms.

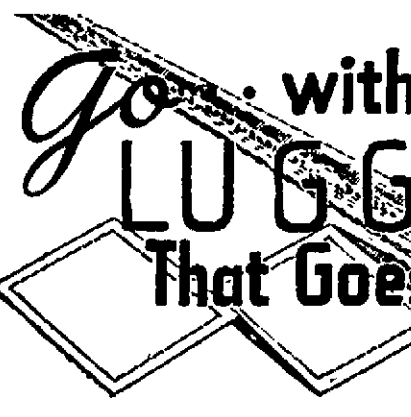

The council cites Baltimore's experience as proof of what can be accomplished when control is properly exercised. Although its population exceeds 800,000, the city kept its injury toll to 16 in 1935. The remainder of Maryland, with about the same population, had 180 casualties.

Festival Officials

Will Visit Appleton

Twenty-five officials of the Milwaukee mid-summer festival who will make an invitational tour of Fox river valley cities will arrive in Appleton at 3:35 Tuesday afternoon, July 6. Mayor Goodland was informed today. The group will arrive via bus. The group will meet with local officials and will journey about the city in the bus which will be equipped with a loud speaker system.

Transfer WPA Workers

To State-Wide Project

Work on a farm-to-market road in the town of Freedom has been discontinued for the summer, according to Ervin Klebenow, Outagamie county WPA project inspector. The work probably will be resumed in September.

The 24 workers on the project have been transferred to a state-wide WPA project for making a cover map survey of land sections in the country. The work also is going on in Door, Brown, Manitowish and Calumet county in this district. The project is being sponsored by the state planning board.
